Has Birthday

Prof. Zeno H. Dixon, above, one of Elkin's most respected citizens, celebrated his "18th birthday" last Thursday at his home here as 50 or 60 friends, many his former pupils, dropped in to wish him happy returns of the day. Really 76 years old, Prof. Dixon was born on February 29, and as a result his birthday comes only once in four years. That he is remembered by his out-of-town friends was attested by the hundreds of greeting cards and telegrams he received.

4-H Clubs Stage Achievement Program Monday

More than 700 Surry county farm boys and girls packed every inch of the county courtroom at Dobson Monday morning for the annual "Achievement Day" of the Surry county 4-H clubs, which was featured by an address by L. R. Harill, of Raleigh, state director of the 4-H Club movement.

A series of demonstrations were offered by four of the county's leading 4-H clubs during the early part of the meeting, which opened with Hazel Key, of Copeland, presiding. The demonstrations were by Mountain Park on "Table Courtesies," Dobson on "Tobacco Seed Treatment," White Plains on "First Aid" and Copeland on "Procedure in Conducting a Meeting."

The demonstrations were followed by the address of Harill, who praised the club boys and girls of Surry county highly for their excellent work and urged them on to greater efforts in the future. The final feature of the program was the presentation of awards by A. P. Cobb, who directs the boys' 4-H Club work in Surry.

Hazel Key, of Copeland, who is president of the Surry county council and also president of her own club at Copeland, was presented with the achievement medal for the most out-standing work done by any club member in the county. It was the second straight year that she had won this award, highest given in the county each year.

The Copeland club as a unit also won two high awards. For the second straight year the Copeland club was given the achievement banner and designated as the "Honor Club" of the year in the county. The Copeland group also won the banner for presenting the best demonstration for the achievement day program.

Arlene Johnson, of Beulah High School, was given the award for the clothing project. She was cited for having made 71 articles of clothing during the year, including 42 dresses and numerous articles of fancy work. She also earned a total of $13 during the year for sewing for other people and in fair prizes.

Awards were given to Ruth Morris, of Franklin; Ruth Wood, of Copeland; and Versie Collins, of Mountain Park, as the winners in the annual Surry 4-H style show. Miss Morris also received a special award as the Surry representative at the state style show at Raleigh. Joyce Atkinson, ten-year-old Siloam girl, was given the award as the junior style show leader.

Josephine Dockery, of Dobson, was presented with the canning award, for her work in canning 808 cans of fruit, meats and vegetables. The award for room improvement went to Peggy Taylor, of White Plains, for having worked a great transformation in her room at home. May Ola Posey, of Copeland, received the food preparation award.

Allen Jarvis, 12-year-old Beulah youth, won the corn club prize for having grown 79 bushels of corn on one acre, as compared with the Surry average of 20 bushels per acre. He earned $48.96 on his acre of corn. Claude
