At the Sunday morning preaching service at the First Baptist church of Elkin, Miss Estelle Cockerham, formerly a resident of Elkin, but more recently of Washington, D. C., presented a large picture of her great grandfather and great grandmother, Elder W. B. Woodruff and wife.

Elder Woodruff, the organizer of the First Baptist church of this city, was a pioneer preacher and organizer. He donated the land where the church now stands, and was active in the organization and building which was started May 18, 1889.

The large picture presented by Miss Cockerham is to hang in the prayer meeting room of the church her great grandfather aided greatly to organize.

SENIORS FETED BY KIWANIS

Elkin and Jonesville Graduates Entertained at Banquet Friday

THAD REECE IS SPEAKER

J. T. Reece, for 22 years county superintendent of schools in Yadkin, addressed the Elkin and Jonesville seniors as guests of the Elkin Kiwanis club at Hotel Elkin last Friday evening.

Mr. Reece opened his talk by stating that he had been coming to Elkin for the past 22 years and that it is his belief that Elkin is, in reality, the "best little town in North Carolina."

Referring to present world conditions, he stated that now, of all times, the seniors should know what America stands for—what freedom stands for. The future, he said, depends on America's youth and the degree of service rendered by youth depends upon the preparation made while in school. Today is the day of youth, and a nation's greatest asset is its youth, Mr. Reece pointed out.

The speaker stated that he hoped the youth of the nation will be able to take the United States off relief in their day as guides of the nation's destiny. "It's a job we've failed to do," he said, referring to the older generation.

Mr. Reece paid warm tribute to Professor Z. H. Dixon, of Elkin, during the course of his talk. He at one time went to school to Prof. Dixon when the latter was teaching school in Yadkin county.

L. S. Weaver, president of the club, and superintendent of the Jonesville school, welcomed the members of the two graduating classes, stating that nothing is closer to the heart of Kiwanis than boys' and girls' work.

J. Mark McAdams, superintendent of Elkin schools, presented Miss Alice Dixon, faculty member, who introduced each member of the Elkin senior class. Eugene Martin, president of the Jonesville senior class, introduced the Jonesville seniors.

Mozelle Kimmer, Jonesville senior, and Gladys Transou, Elkin senior, were winners of attendance prizes presented by the club.
