NEW MODEL SEWING MACHINES DISPLAYED

There is a new thrill in sewing machines today. They've had their faces lifted—been transformed in outward appearance as much as they have been improved mechanically for sewing ease and efficiency.

They have shaken off the ugly chrysalis of misshapen box-like housing and cast iron stand and are stepping out in exciting new guises—as authentically styled, quality built, purposeful pieces of furniture that offer beauty and every day usefulness.

The fascinating disguises of these new machines are best illustrated by the new model White Rotary electric machines recently put on display at Hinshaw Cash Hardware Co. One model is a handsome modern desk in warm tones of American walnut highlighted by golden and black drawer pulls. The four drawers down the side accommodate stationery and writing supplies, one drawer being fitted out with ink well and pen rack. Here is a beautiful and appropriate piece of furniture for any living room—and when its top is opened a modern all-electric machine is ready to go to work. Still other models are designed as servettes, lamp stands, console tables, night stands and other sensible utility pieces, all with built-in sewing machines.
