

THE GAB BAG

By ALAN BROWNING, JR.

THIS AND THAT

In the not so distant past we saw a local man appear in a hearing before Magistrate J. L. Hall as prosecuting witness in a case where a young man was up for speeding and reckless driving. This local man was the one who swore out the warrant.

Fifteen minutes ago we saw this same man drive his car through the street intersection at the Turner Drug Company corner at a speed of at least 40 miles an hour, and still picking up. This reckless act brought the comment: "This town has some of the craziest drivers in it I've ever seen!" from a bystander who was standing on the sidewalk.

We didn't circulate around the streets much election night, but from where we were it appeared to be the quietest election night we ever saw. Didn't a single drunk show up in our sector, which, to say the least, was a surprise to us.

Now that election is over and the returns are in, we can get back to worrying about the war and anything else that may need worrying about.

When we were out at Klondike Farm the other week the question of why Klondike Nira, the cow who died at Little America, was named "Nira," arose. Mr. Cooley didn't know, and we couldn't remember. But since that time, we have remembered. Klondike Nira started on her trip southward at about the time of the NIRA—National Industrial Recovery Act. Thus the cow was dubbed NIRA, although these initials were later shortened in popular usage to NRA. If we are not mistaken, the cow's name was originally Klondike Carterette.

Always first to jump in and lend a helping hand following disaster is the American Red Cross. Those of you who have joined—or who will be asked to join—are really contributing your money to a worthwhile organization when you pin the little button upon your dress or lapel, or attach the Red Cross sticker to your door or window.

The Red Cross never asks your politics, your church affiliations or if you have water on the knee, if you should be unfortunate enough to wind up in the middle of a bad fix. This organization jumps in with rolled up sleeves and leaves question asking to others.

Fortunately, Elkin has never had to call on the Red Cross for relief in a disaster. But North Wilkesboro, following the flood of not so long ago, knows what the Red Cross means, and knows that it was functioning to aid the many who were left helpless and homeless even before the muddy waters of the Yadkin had gotten back in its banks.

Maybe the local roll call will be over before you read this. If it is—and you didn't receive an opportunity to join—call up Mrs. A. O. Bryan, who is in charge of the drive. If it isn't, do your part in aiding the work of this greatest of all humanitarian organizations.

No one who knows will tell us what company is going to occupy the new building being erected next to F. A. Brendle & Son on East Main street. But if it proves to be a large department store, don't be surprised. Or so we get it on the grape vine.

As we understand it, all you fellows but two, who registered several weeks ago and have figured out your order number from lists published following the national lottery at Washington, have the wrong lottery number insofar as concerns you in this county. At this writing we don't know whether The Tribune is going to get the official list in time to publish in this issue or not, but as it was explained to us, no registrant in this draft area will have an order number larger than the total number of registrants for this section. The local draft board has taken the master list, sent from Washington, and marked off all names except the men under its own jurisdiction. These men will be given order numbers beginning at No. 1 and continuing numerically on through the list. The highest number will not exceed 2,300-odd.

Our serial number was No. 38. No. 38 was drawn from the fish bowl at Washington in capsule No. 6,102. But that won't be our correct order number, as we at first believed. Just what it will be we don't know at this writing, but just as soon as the list is available, The Tribune is going to print it, the list to contain the order number, serial number and name of the registrant. Maybe the address, too. Maybe a part of the names will appear in this issue. It all depends on when the list is turned over to us and how much time we will have to set the tremendous amount of type necessary to print it.

Of course we don't expect any of you to understand what we've written about the numbers, but anyway, it sure was good to fill up space.

EAST ELKIN

The Loyal Workers team met at the home of Billy and Howard Daye, on Chatham street, Tuesday night at 7 p.m. Rev. Flincham, president, presided over the service. The meeting opened with singing and scripture reading by Mrs. Creed and prayer by Pete Gambill. Howard Daye read a Bible story. Charlie Hinson explained a poster on "Two Ways." Mrs. Creed and Mrs. Swaim made short talks. Rev. Herman F. Duncan, pastor of the Methodist church, was our guest and he made a wonderful talk to our boys on "Choice." Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. Daye.

Rev. J. L. Powers filled his regular appointment at Mt. Hermon Sunday. Reports are that he preached a wonderful sermon and a good meeting was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Newman spent Sunday in Ronda visiting her parents, Rev. and Mrs. R. D. Daye.

Rev. Claude E. Flincham, president of the Young People's Loyal Movement, assisted by Mr. Roger Stewart, whom he has appointed to lead the Movement work at Pilot Mountain, spent Saturday and Sunday in Mt. Airy organizing Loyal Workers teams.

LITTLE ELKIN

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Key had as their Sunday guests Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Key and daughter, Opal, of Ararat, and Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Sale and daughter, Barbara Jean, of Ronda.

Mr. Noah James Settle, who has been visiting relatives and friends in Maryland, returned home last Wednesday.

Miss Margaret Settle, a student at Mitchell College, Statesville, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Settle, Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Walls and family, of Maryland, are visiting relatives and friends in this community this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Luffman announce the birth of a son at Hugh Chatham Memorial hospital.

Little Minnie Lou Laster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Laster, who has been seriously ill, is improving some, we are glad to note.

ARE TO TRANSPORT OFFERINGS TO HOME

W. N. Ireland, chairman of the orphanage committee of the Yadkin Baptist Association, announces that each church in the association will be responsible this year for the transportation of the Thanksgiving donation made by their church to Mills Home, Thomasville. It is believed that this system will bring more people in contact with this worthy institution and thus in-

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. crease from year to year the offering.

Sunday school superintendents of the various churches are chairmen of the committees in their respective churches, and it is believed that they will take the personal responsibility of carrying through this worthwhile work.

Anything usable is acceptable for the offering and each church is requested to take along with other donations at least one coop of chickens for the children of the orphanage.
