It's still not too late to do your Christmas shopping early.

Mussolini calls the Greeks "tricky and hateful." Well, he ought to know the full meaning of those words.

As we understand Congressman Dough-ton he wants the government to pay as it goes—or not go.

It is related that a plumber's helper was first to get in the draft. Wonder if he forgot to fetch his wrench along.

Since Hitler has extended his war zone all over Europe, it will make it easier for the Royal Air Force to hit a legitimate target.

For more reasons than one we'd rather be the fellow who invented the zipper than the guy who perfected the machine gun.

And of course there is that other way of preventing a surplus of workers—quit having children.

You're wrong, brother, money isn't everything so long as the coal man is willing to extend the usual credit.

"The only thing that gives us a bigger pain in the neck than a radio hill-billy is a radio hill-nanny."—Washington Post.

"Max Baer thinks he has found Joe Louis' weakness. Maybe it's this: If you lie on the floor long enough, Joe will go away."—Omaha News-Herald.

The Nazi Program

One does not have to turn to the "Red" and "White" papers released by the Dies committee to determine Nazi procedure or appraise the boldness of German agents in this or any other country. Hitler and his spokesmen have set forth their plans in unmistakable terms.

Many of the foremost Nazi leaders have repeatedly proclaimed their plan to draw all persons of German origin throughout the world into a world crusade for Nazism. Claiming that there are 30,000,000 Americans of German origin here, their aim is to transform enough of these into aggressive, nationalistic Germans to break up national unity in the United States. Right now they are claiming that eight million of that number are already committed to the German cause.

And to understand that this is definitely the purpose of the present German government one has only to turn to Hitler who wrote in "Mein Kampf": "The German Reich as a State must embrace all Germans," and to Hermann Goering, Hitler's side-kick, and second most influential German leader who is even more definite when he says: "The German nation, conceived in its complete unity consists of the folk-comrades in the home lands, along with the almost 1,000,000 Reich Germans abroad, and the many million people of German blood in Europe and over sea. I hereby proclaim this so that not only Germans but the whole world may hear and understand. Protection of German kultur and German folk-unity is the foremost mission of the Reich. Every German in the homeland must help us give the German world abroad what it has a right to expect."

That explains why time and again Hitler has carried his armed forces into neighbor states to "protect" German nationals. It was a convenient excuse, to be sure, to extend the Nazi power and influence, but it was even more than that: it was part of the blue-print which has been seared into the German brain until they really believe that it is their mission to rule, no matter how foul the means.

Goering declares that "It is a foremost mission of my Fuehrer and the Nazi State to protect Germans in the United States." Even as he has protected them in other countries, we reckon. As he is protecting them through a blood purge in Rumania, right now.

It is to the credit of some Germans who have known something of the freedom in this country, that they will have none of this philosophy. But there are countless others who not only subscribe to it, but actually are using their time and talents to bore from within. It is high time we were getting hard-boiled with this tribe. If they don't like our ways, they should skedaddle, and if they are reluctant to move out, they should be given a shove. Why be mealy-mouthed about it, when Hitler and his gang speak so boldly of their program.

That "New Order"

Hitler's successful grouping together of small neighbor nations under the so-called Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis, would be impressive, as it is meant to be, were it not for the fact that they have enrolled reluctantly and under pressure that left nothing to their own preference in deciding. And so the "new order" that he professes to crave for Europe, is only the child of his imagination. And some of these days the child will rise up and smack him in the face.

Agreements are not sacred to Hitler. They are adhered to only so long as adherence serves his own particular purpose. There is plenty to indicate that there is nothing binding in the original German-Italian agreement. Mussolini has not been faring so well in Greece and there is reason to believe Hitler is not displeased with Italy's failure: It makes Mussolini that much more indebted to Adolf if finally the latter must come to his rescue. Likewise it is obvious that Japan will get nothing out of the partnership unless it be the advantage of keeping Uncle Sam's eyes and hands turned the other way while Nippon grabs everything that is not nailed down in the Far East.

As for Europe itself, no one knows better than Hitler that the small neighbor nations have signed the axis agreement from compulsion and not from choice: That the Poles, the Danes, the Norwegians, the Dutch and the Belgians are not willing but reluctant members of his "new order." They have submitted to axis pressure, yes, but only because there was nothing else for them to do. They along with Hungary and Rumania were already under the German yoke. And that will apply to Bulgaria, France and Spain, if and when they are brought into the orbit.

In all of these countries the people are patiently waiting for the day of their deliverance—and the patient waiting may not be good for what ails Hitler. If left to their own choice, most of these people would line up with Britain in the fight she is making for the democracy it affords—and they have had a taste of this freedom and peace themselves and had come to like it.

They understand perfectly well that the "new order" Herr Hitler is talking about is a new order that would make Berlin the clearing house for all European economy and which would give Hitler the power to take toll of every enterprise that would bend European backs to pauper toil in order to pay tribute to a "superior people."

Some day Hitler will find his strength to be his greatest weakness, for the scriptures tell that eventually right will prevail, and history reminds that tyrants invariably must bow blood heads. In scattering his military forces all over Europe in order to police the conquered territory, he will leave a weak spot somewhere—and then his real troubles will begin.

Making a Mountain Out of a Molehill

It may have come a little late, of course, but now that the Democrats for Willkie organization has filed its report with Secretary of State Thad Eure, there will be no further cause for grumbling from official Raleigh.

As a matter of fact the furore that arose from failure to file the report on the date specified by law, was merely making a mountain out of a molehill. The reluctance of some to have their names listed as contributors obviously was a little far-fetched and maybe contributed to the lateness of the report. On the other hand what seemed for the time to be a willingness on the part of Raleigh officials to accommodate them, served to encourage delay. But the craving to embarrass Paul Leonard and drive the wedge deeper between Paul and his Fair Tax Association finally triumphed, the case was tried in the newspapers for all the unfavorable publicity that could be squeezed out of it, and Raleigh has its coveted Willkie report in detail—down to the littlest two-bits handed in to help the cause.

We don't think it ever was in the back of the heads of these Willkie leaders to defy the law, or that they were trying to cover up. That is indicated by the fact that the report made out by Treasurer Butler was on its way to Raleigh, when the newspapers were carrying the rather pert comment of Secretary of State Eure. It probably would have gone forward earlier if Mr. Eure had not been inclined to carry water on both shoulders—as he is so capable of doing. Remembering how Elder Frank McNinch had defied the powers that be so successfully, there were some in North Carolina who were afraid there would be a repetition. Back yonder when McNinch was in flower the law was not as specific as it is now, nor so fully equipped with teeth. Yet there was the moral obligation for him to come clean, just as there was the moral obligation, plus the legal requirement for a full and clear report of the 1940 activities of the Willkie organization. There should have been no delay in meeting this obligation.

But now that this report is in hand, listing a number of prominent citizens as contributors, and telling where the money went, what will be made of it? Will these gentry be given the cold stare, when comes another campaign? We don't think so. The North Carolina Democracy will need their votes, their influence, their dollars, and they will be looked upon as members of the family who temporarily wandered off the reservation. It will be remembered, too, that the more than thirteen thousand dollars spent didn't get the cause any whither, and that will have a lot to do with the headaches of the morning after the night before.

2 REPUBLICANS, ONE DEMOCRAT SWORN IN

An unusual political situation developed in Wilkes county Monday when two Republicans and one Democrat were sworn into office as commissioners instead of two Democrats and one Republican as were elected in November.

In the election C. E. Lenderman, Democrat in district one was elected over Dave Mink, Republican, and V. T. Walsh, Democrat, was elected over Grover Hamby, Republican. But when swearing in time rolled around Monday C. C. Hayes, Republican clerk of court, said he had received the resignation of Mr. Lenderman, due to bad health. So, taking the position that a vacancy existed, Clerk Hayes appointed Republican Max Foster, of North Wilkesboro, to the board.

The Substitute

"Pat, what in the world is the matter?"
"I just got out of the hospital—I was operated on for appendicitis."
"What's that got to do with the lump on your head?"
"A lot. They ran out of ether."

Straight Salary

To a Jewish ex-service man an acquaintance remarked: "So you were in the army, Ike?"
"Oh, I was in the army," was the proud response.
"Did you get a commission?"
"No, only my vages!"

Masonry was established in Williamsburg, Va., as early as 1762.
