HOEY PREDICTS GOOD BUSINESS

Word from North Carolina's Governor

ALL ENTITLED TO WORK

Kannapolis, Dec. 19—Governor Hoey, foreseeing a continued improvement in business conditions, said here tonight that "we all look forward confidently to the time when private industry and expanding private service will afford the opportunities of work to all who are seeking employment."

The Governor spoke at a meeting of more than 800 guests of the Cannon Mills, many of whom are employees who have been in the service of the mills for more than 25 years.

"The privilege of work and the joy of working constitute the chief elements of satisfactory living, and no able-bodied man should be denied a chance to work," he said. "Honest labor is a stabilizing force with individuals and communities, and idleness is a constant source of crime and poverty. One encouraging development now is the increase in employment . . ."

Hoey praised workers who had been employed continuously by one company for a quarter of a century or more, and said "this long period of unbroken employment is a joint compliment to you and your employers."

He added: "This sort of service is found in all walks of life. Ever and anon you find a minister whose pastorate at one church lengthens through the years with a consequent rich heritage of fruitful service. Again it is an educator who has almost lived his life in one community as he has taught the youth through the generations as the constant flow of children come through the schools. The whole community stands to admire all who are capable of sustained service and enduring loyalty."

"We can approximate the task of the workers of America when we inventory briefly the productivity of this nation in farm, field and factory, and then add to it the whole construction field and all those who labor in business establishments, schoolrooms and colleges, offices, laboratories and in all fields of science and research. They are all workers. The professional men are many times the hardest workers with longer hours than any of the others. This nation is composed of a busy line of laborers, with comparatively few drones. There is not much place for an idler in our whole economy, unless made so by age, health or some disability."

SEIZE RECORDS CHICAGO

Chicago, Dec. 19—A municipal court investigator who declined to be quoted said today that records seized at the Chicago offices of the German-American bund included a list of between 1,500 and 2,000 U. S. army and navy officers and privates who apparently were members of the bund. The records were seized by order of Municipal Judge Oscar S. Caplan in an effort to determine whether the bund and the Teutonia Publishing company, which have adjoining offices on North Western avenue, had assets to pay delinquent tax bills. They are being sued for non-payment of personal property taxes.

The records were seized by Sergt. Steve Leddy, of the state's attorney's police, a bailiff of the court, and two federal bureau of investigation agents. They were inspected immediately behind closed doors.

William S. Devereau, F. B. I. agent in charge here, declined comment.

One of the investigators said, however, that the army and navy list was checked against an indexed file of "several thousand" middle west bund members, and that some of the names were on the list.
