This Morning's Fire.

The fire department was called out at half-past r o'clock this morning, by a blaze in Ward 3. The fire originated in a frame store on Stonewall street, occupied by Mr. C. M. Baker. This building was almost consumed before the alarm was turned in. The store and its contents, and a frame residen .e adjoining, also occupied by Mr. Baker were burned. The buildings belonged to Mr. Geo. Etheredge. The total loss was about $1,200, partly insured. The fire is believed to have been incendiary.

A Fireman Killed.

Mr. J. S. L. Brown, who formerly lived at Mooresville, and who has been running as fireman on the Richmond and Danville road, was killed at Danville yesterday. He was firing for the switch engine there and was engaged in drawing the ashes from the fire box, unknown to the engineer. While the fireman was under the engine, the engineer opened the throttle, and the wheels passed over Mr. Brown, cutting off one of his legs close to the thigh. He died soon afterwards. The engineer thought his fireman was on th

TIPTOED TO JAIL.

OTTO NERWIS FINED ONE HUN-DRED AND FIFTY DOLLARS.

He Does Not Open His Mouth in Court and Goes to Jail Tiptosing Along the Streets -- Some Think he is Cresy and Others Think he is Only Mad.

The trial of Otto Nerwis, whose lively behavior was noted in yesterday's News, attracted a great crowd to the mayor's court room this morning. Nerwis had spent the night in a cell and when brought into the court room he had lost his belligerency of the previous day, but there was a dogged look of defiance in his eyes. The court room was packed, Mayor McDowell occupied his usual seat, and Nerwis was brought into the room by officers through the door opening into the prison corridor. He is a tall, muscular man, and looks every inch the athlete. His hair is slightly curly and his complexion is almost bloodless. He came into the court room in his usual suit of dark colored pants, dark vest and brown woolen shirt. He wore no coat. His hat was firmly pulled down over his head as he took his seat. The mayor ordered him to take off his hat, but the only reply was a cynical smile, and officer Morris had to take the hat from his head. The trial of Nerwis was then proceeded with, the policemen giving in their evidence. Nerwis sat dumb throughout the whole proceeding, never asking a question and never answering one, though several were addressed to him. Once while sergeant Jetion was giving in his testimony, Nerwis smiled faintly. There were three At High Point a few days before, charges against Nerwis, one for refusing to comply with the sanitary ws, another for interfering with the While all these scenes were being unitary policeman, and a third for assaulting the officers. Nerwis neither moved nor spoke when the fine was pronounced. Afwho were drawn to the man by symn he went along on tip-toe, but walking briskly. A big crowd of atreet urchins followed in the wake. His case is a curious one, and not known whether or not he is able to pay the fine. Dr. Gibbon, from whom Nerwis rents the beick store, said to a reporter that Nerwin had always paid his rent in advance, and but a male guest who was sleeping had drummed up a good trade. "He is a room to himself was the heaviest was always affable and pleasant to had drummed up a good trade. Nerwis was interviewed at the jail to-day, and in reply to a question said that he was not crazy. He also said that he did not intend to pay the fine. Mayor McDowell says that unless Nerwis pays, he will have to join the chain gang.

APRIL 9TH.

A Day that will be Recalled by the Johnnies -- Some Recollections of Years Ago.

This is the twenty-fourth anniversary of a day that will always be remembered by the people of the South-the anniversary day of the closing scene at Appomattox Court House, when the remnants of Lee's army laid down their arms to return to their desolate homes. The war was over then, but war still waged in North Carolina, for Sherman and Stoneman were facing the feeble forces in this State. On the 13th of April, four days following Lee's surrender, Stoneman captured and invested Salisbury, and his torch created a pile of flame that lighted the country for miles around. The fine passenger depot and great shed of the North Carolina Railroad Company, the finest the State has ever had, were burned, together with the railroad shops, the Mt. Vernon Hotel and the commissary buildings and the prison, hospital, &c. The Yadkin river bridge was saved by a Confederate battery that was planted on a high hill commanding the bridges The Federals made several attempts to destroy the bridge, but the shelling was too hot for them. Stoneman burned 1,700 bales of cotton belonging to F. and H. Fries. enacted among us, an incident oc-

SPRING ANNOUNCEMENT.

WE congratulate our customers and friends upon the return of the WE congratulate our customers and friends upon the return of the genial Spring Season. It is always a pleasant relief to exchange the heavier and more sombre apparel of winter for the lighter, and never has fashion set her seal upon goods for the season so attractive and tasteful as they are at the present time. The very best advertisement of our goods would be the goods themselves, could they be sent around for general inspection. As this is impossible we fall back on the faithful types to assist us to describe in some measure the chief feature of our Spring Stock. By way of preliminary we may say that we have brought our long business experience and knowledge of local tastes, to the selection of the goods we offer and with a result which we hope will be as gratifying to our customers and with a result which we nope will be as gratifying to our customers as to ourselves. The extent of our stock is unusually large and the variety offered in styles and the materials are so wide that we think we can scarcely fail of satisfying every intending purchaser. In every department our stock will be found to be complete; nothing having been neglected in our effort to make it the most complete assortment of goods ever offered to the trading public of this locality. In making our selection we have realized that to the quality of the goods sold we must look for the building up of that confidence between huyer and seller so essential to a commercial are that confidence between buyer and seller so essential to a commercial success and permanence. Our customers will find that in respect to quality our stock has no superior, if any rival, our policy-being to sacrifice a margin of our profits rather than sacrifice the confidence of our customers in the goods we sell. Some rather unusual opportunities have been offered to watchful buyers to secure bargains in some of the desirable standard lines. These we have taken advantage of and customers will find that our prices are unusually low, relative to the value of the goods we offer. We aim to satisfy all classes of buyers, and our stock therefore includes the variety to satisfy all classes of buyers, and our stock therefore includes the variety of grades which have correspondingly varied prices. We desire to be known for cheapness, but we handle no cheap goods, that is to say, we give even in low price grades the very best article the market affords for the money. It is a shortsighted policy for any merchant to make a reputation for low priced goods at the expense of his reputation for values. No article is really CHEAP which will not return the buyer the full value of the money expended in its purchase. Our steady aim is to safisfe human the money expended in its purchase. Our steady aim is to satisfy buyers, not only by alluring bargains, but by the satisfaction that comes in goods that wear and stand the test of actual use. In the matter of Novelties we that wear and stand the test of actual use. In the matter of Novelties we think our stock will leave nothing to be desired. By being early in the market we secured the early choice of styles and patterns which always gives the buyer the advantage of picking up such seasonable novelties as are soon exhausted, if they prove desirable to purchasers. We commend to our customers our own method, that of early selection, as it follows in cases that the patterns which are most fancied are the soonest exhausted. We speak with conviction when we say that we do not think any previous season has seen a more inviting display of goods than those to which we direct attention and of which we invite your inspection. And we are sure that it will be a matter of general surprise and congratulation among buyers that we are able to offer so large a choice, and such excellent quality for prices that are remarkable for their moderation.

Respectfully,
