LOCAL RIFPLES.

The new addition to the Buford Hotel is to be four stories high, with a basement.

A congregational meeting is to be held at St. Peter's Episcopal church this evening, immediately after the 8 o'clock service.

The farmers say that the rain of last night and today will do the country more good than a half a dozen centennial celebrations.

Mrs. H. C. Eccles, of Charlotte, was among the invited guests on board the "Erastus Wiman," the Governors' boat, in the naval parade at New York last Monday.

The trials of speed at the fair grounds yesterday demonstrated the fact that there is some fine horse flesh in Charlotte, and that there will be some good races on the 20th and 21st.

Fannie Davis was arraigned before Esquire Maxwell today on charge of using loud and profane language on the streets. She was fined a "penny and costs, Mr. Clark."

At the mayor's court this morning, Esquire D. G. Maxwell presiding, J. W. Kendrick was fined $5.50 for an assault on Alice Simmons, and Ike Bronson was fined $2.50 for drunkenness. The parties were colored.

Dr. Misenheimer reports that Green McConnell, the darkey who was shot in mistake for a burglar, last Saturday night, is improving, and is able to sit up. Dr. Misenheimer says that McConnell will be out the latter part of this week.

Engineer J. F. Misenheimer, who bought Mr. Jno. W. Fitzer's house, on North Tryon street, will move into it tomorrow. Mr. Misenheimer is the Carolina Central engineer who was so badly hurt in the wreck near Lileville, last December, and his friends will be glad to learn that he is still slowly improving, though he cannot yet walk without the aid of sticks.

Last Night at the Academy of Music.

The second entertainment in behalf of the Home & Hospital, given at the Academy of Music last night, was greeted by a crowd as large and as enthusiastic as on the first occasion. The performance was on the same order, and equally as good. No mistake was made in advertising it as an unique entertainment. Credit is due to all the participants, and especially to Miss Lilla Oates and Miss Annie Tate, whose solos were most enthusiastically applauded.

Getting Ahead of Prof. Baker.

Prof. J. C. Baker, our local weather prophet, who missed it on the first pop in his May prediction, had better look to his laurels, as the Government is preparing to get ahead of him in the matter of weather predictions. Beginning today, the signal service will, whenever practicable, make a general prediction showing the condition of the weather two or three days in advance. These predictions will be furnished at the same time as the regular detailed indications, but will not appear regularly, so that their non-appearance will signify nothing more than that the indications official did not think it judicious to make a prediction.

The Philharmonic Concert.

The Philharmonic concert at the Opera House tomorrow night promises to be an entertainment of more than ordinary merit, and our people may be assured that an excellent treat is in store for them. The committees entrusted with the management of the affair are: On stage building—E. L. Martin, Prof. Baker, P. S. McLaughlin; on advertising—Prof. Gaertner, E. L. Martin, Prof. Davies; on decorations—Mrs. I. G. Bryan, Mrs. Gooding, Mrs. Valer, Mrs. Dins, Miss Oates, Miss Grier, Miss Wriston, Miss Grimes, and Messrs. W. A. Barrier, J. F. Carlton, W. G. Haughton, and W. B. Kidd.

OUR TIME NOW.

The New York Blouout is Over, and There's to be a Big Celebration on North Carolina Hill, Saturday-Postals About the Guilford Battle Ground Celebration.

The usually quiet people around Greensboro are wonderfully stirred up on the Guilford Battle Ground Celebration which is to take place on Saturday next on that historic battle field. If the weather is favorable they expect at least 10,000 people. Governor Vance, who is the orator of the day, will himself be a great attraction. He has taken great interest in this patriotic enterprise and will, no doubt, give the crowd something fresh and funny. The hearts of the people go out to Vance even as they never did before, since he had the great misfortune to lose his eye. Affection and sympathy combine to draw the people to him.

General Rufus Barringer, one of the very first stockholders in the company, has promised to be present and say a word from the Charlotte stand point.

The programme sent us shows a most charming series of entertainments. The military parade will be very imposing—twelve companies in line, headed by "the Guilford Battle Ground Continentals," under Capt. D. Schenck, Jr. The uniform is that of 1781, cocked hats, knee pants, buff vests, epaulettes, and tinsel all over. This will be a striking feature of the day.

Thirteen young ladies, mounted on gay chargers and dressed in stars and stripes, will represent the old 13 Colonies. Their dress is unique and beautiful.

Flags and bunting will adorn the monuments and houses and speakers stand. The Durham brass band and a full drum corps will furnish the music. Special trains will run every forty minutes from Greensboro to the grounds, on the C. F. & Y. V. railroad.

If our people want to see a real live North Carolina revolutionary celebration, let them go to Guilford Court House next Saturday.

Civil Service Begins Today.

The Democrats who hold positions in the postal cars today, may rest easier, as the time of J. Lowrie Bell, of the Railway Mail Service, to run down and remove Democratic clerks, expires today. President Harrison has been urged to extend the time when the railway mail service is to be placed under the civil service rules and regulations, so that Mr. Bell might finish the work of dismissing Democrats to make room for Republicans. Postmaster General Wanamaker, it is asserted, has endorsed the proposed extension of time, and he visited the White House to plead for a little more time. Civil Service Commissioner Lyman was also a White House caller, and from him the President learned that everything was in readiness to apply the merit system to the railway mail service. As the result of the two interviews with Gen. Harrison, Mr. Wanamaker is quoted as saying: "The civil service rules will shelter the railway mail service on and after Wednesday next." After that day, therefore, Superintendent Bell must content himself with reinstating only such Republicans as were dismissed by the last Administration after May 1, 1888.

The good Mr. Wanamaker can take hold of his Sabbath school work with the happy consciousness that as Postmaster General he last week broke the record for making rapid changes of postmasters. The 188 Republicans named to take the places of as many Democratic postmasters, brings the total for the week up to 1,016. This is 64 better than that of the previous week, when 955 changes were made. The Postmaster General is undoubtedly proud of his success as a headman, and each of the removed postmasters will fully understand what the President meant when he said that "only the interests of the public service should suggest the removal from office."

Dr. D. O'Donoghue returned to the city today.

HIS JAW UNTIED.

A Successful Operation at the Home and Hospital by the Young Doctors—Cutting Contracted Skin From a Man's Throat.

A surgical operation something out of the ordinary run of things, was performed at the Home and Hospital this morning. The patient came from Morning Star township, and is subject to epilepsy. Some time ago he fell in the fire with a fit and had both his hands burned off, besides being badly burned on the throat. He recovered, but he was in a bad way. The contraction of the burned skin on his throat pulled down his chin so that he had the appearance of a man whose lower jaw was fastened to his breast bone. The physicians undertook to relieve him, and they were successful. After a careful examination into the case it was decided to cut the skin from the throat and thus allow the man's lower jaw to resume its normal position.

The operation was performed by Dr. Robert Gibbon, assisted by Drs. C. A. Misenheimer, Giles McAden, and Willie Graham, with Dr. J. P. McCombs as backstander. The young doctors handled the case in good style and made a perfect success of the operation. The skin was cut open from the centre of the chin along the front of the throat to the breast, then a couple of diagonal cuts were made across the throat, and the patient lifted his lower jaw and moved it up and down as if it felt good to be untied after so long a time. The contracted skin was patched up, and the man will leave the hospital all right in a few days.

They Made a Busy Trip.

When the noon train from Washington pulled into the Trade street station yesterday, a couple of patriots in uniform stepped out and stretched their legs in a promenade up and down the asphalt yards while the train waited 20 minutes for dinner. They were early comers-back, and didn't get to see the big demonstration in Gotham in honor of father George. They looked though, like they might have been through a war. Their feathers were ruffled, their eyes were heavy for want of sleep, and their caps sat up on top of their heads, having grown several sizes too small. The boys got left at Washington, and their companies went on with the tickets, and they finally got transportation back home. It will be a long time before they celebrate another Washington inauguration.

Stick on a Stretcher Trip.

A perfect shower of little three by four handbills filled the air and fluttered over and down among the people in the trainyard as the Air Line train pulled into the Trade street station yesterday afternoon. The handbills treated upon the whys of issuing liquor licenses to send souls to hell, and were fired from a car window by Mr. R. H. Morse, who raked them up in handfuls from a valve and pitched them from the window. He had just returned from Asheville, and he lined the track all the way from that place to Charlotte with his handbills.

Mr. Morse has been visiting points in the western part of the State, and took in the asylum at Morganton. "It is a fine place," he said to a News reporter, "and you can tell them that whenever they get ready to send me there, I am willing to go."

The Methodist Church Service.

In some strange manner one sheet of manuscript of THE NEWS report on the thanksgiving exercises in Charlotte was lost, and the result was that the Tryon Street Methodist Church services were omitted and the services at the Methodist church were conducted by Rev. Solomon Pool, and were of an interesting character.

The trouble which the missing sheet of manuscript caused was not noticed until too late. It made us sadder Mr. Pool's sermon on Mr. Cheshire. Accidents will happen in the best regulated households.

W. KAUFMAN & CO., EXTRAORDINARY SALE

Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods, Hats Begins Today.

EVERYTHING MUST BE SOLD.

HERE'S A BONA FIDE SACRIFICE.

Ladies and Gentlemen,

LISTEN—Our store in the Central Hotel building, as familiar to you as your own homes and firesides, is to be remodelled, improved, enlarged and fitted up in palatial style. The work will be begun right away, just as soon as we can dispose of the stock. We've an enormously large stock, and as remodelling will be general, we must sell it; can't do anything else. So today we will begin a

—OF—

OUR * ENTIRE * STOCK.

A sale such as has never been seen in this city. Not a garment of any description will escape. We've made reductions that will wake the State. We want to put these facts into your head and we want 'em to stick there. The goods we are compelled to sacrifice now are new goods of this season. Reliable, Staple CLOTHING AND FURNISHINGS such as we have always kept. As our entire store will be remodelled and improved, we can't keep any goods in any nook or corner, so the compulsion to sell is very great. The stock to be sold is simply enormous, and the time very, very short. To empty the store in the shortest possible time we've boiled prices and values down to such a consistency as will pack our store and keep it packed till every dollar's worth of stuff under our roof is gone. Be punctual.
