MASONS, TAKE NOTICE,-Regular meeting to-night. Work in the first degree. A full attendance desired. Visiting brethren cordially invited.

-The walls of the Graded School building have gone up above the first story doors and windows, and begins to show something of what it is to be.

-The jay bird has come back to us after an absence of several months, and appears as the forerunner of chilling winds. But what a sorry singer he is.

-Mr. Charles Kirkman, a brother of Treasurer Kirkman, died yesterday evening at 7 o'clock, after an illness of seven weeks, and will be buried tomorrow at 10 o'clock in the cemetery of Friendship church. His age was something over 23 years.

The court adjourned yesterday, having finished up the docket, and judge, jury, lawyers, clients, witnesses and spectators shuffled off to other parts, Judge Shepherd made his usual good record while on our bench, and carried away with him the good opinion of our

Personal .-

-Mr. J. L. Stone, music dealer of cording to a law governing engineers. Releigh, was here yesterday looking her the good wishes of many triends.

-What is known as the Houston comprising something over one hundred acres, was divided into three parcels, and changed hands yester-

-Greene street continues to improve, but especially since the two houses built by Mr. Sikes and Mr. Foust have been closed in and painted. They both appear to be well built, and will be ready for occupancy soon.

-On such a morning as we have had to day the hammers of carpenters can be heard at a great distance as they drive up nails in the roofs and sides of buildings here and yonder. The effect is fine to one who withdraws to a quiet spot on the suburbs and listens quietly for ten minutes. Now and then he will hear the crowing of chanticleer in the distance, or some autumn bird will begin to sing of the departing summer. Even the cawing of the crow, as he flies across the distant forest, gives a welcome sound by way of variety, and in the dew-laden sedge the feeble deathsong of innumerable insects awakens thoughts that are peculiar to the sea-

-The Greensboro Gas Company are just now very busy in building a new and complete bench of retorts of 3's. In taking out the retorts there were found to be certain hard carbonized formations in cylindrical shape which would be objects of curiosity to those who are strangers to such things. This improvement at the gas works is demanded by the recent extension of the Company's mains, and the recent order of the city for 32 new lamps on the streets, together with the number of new houses into which gas is to be introduced-halfdozen such houses making application within a few days past. This winter the Company's pipes will enter the new United States building, making a large addition to the present consumption of gas. The Company has already on hand about 300 tons of coal from the coal fields of supply all demands for gas.

A HARD CASE .- We hear to-day of an incident occurring in railroad circles which is really to be regretted.

Capt. Jake Hicks, during the war, was stationary engineer at Company Shops, and was the only man that stood his ground at the period of the surrender when the two hostile armies were confronting each other, and there was a general dispersion of public and railroad officials. Capt, Hicks was at that time sole manager of all trains and the guardian of the company's interests. Since then he has been running for the Richmond and Danville railroad, making in the last twelve months -Dr. H. M. Alford has gone up 48,000 miles, without causing a scratch to spend some time at Piedmont to any passenger or employee. Quite recently he has been honorably dis--Mr. T. A. Lyon returned last charged, on account of the fact, as we night from Danville, where he has learn, that Captain Hicks, for lack of been in the interest of his Tobacco early opportunities, was unable to read the written orders of the company, ac-

This result, while it is by the operation of a wholesome law, which the -Miss Carlette Fetzer, who spent public is bound to approve, if it does several days with her aunt, Mrs. Jos. not demand, seems unfortunate when H. Fetzer, of this city, left for her home, it bears upon so faithful a man, and we Concord, this morning carrying with could wish that some remedy might be found, if it were practicable.

-Mrs. Cynthia Ferrell, wife of place, on the south west of town Rev. George Ferrell, of Granville county, is dead, at the age of 77.
