LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

-Danville has reorganized its Chamber of Commerce.

-The Guilford Grays will attend the inauguration at Raleigh. They will leave to-night.

-We had a call this morning from Mr. William Fridy, advance agent of McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels.

-Married December 20th, 1888, Joseph Kirkman to Susie Shepherd, at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. T. F. McCulloch.

-Henry M. Stanley, the great African explorer, is reported in London as safe, and his whereabouts kept secret for the present.

-Attention is called to the mortgage sale of land by Nellie Graves, mortgagee, to take place Feb. 18th, as advertised in this paper.

-Mr. R. E. Patterson, who has been recuperating at home for some time, came up to the city last night. His health has improved.

NOTICE-SPECIAL.-The Greensboro Chamber of Commerce will meet to-night, and will be asked for this time.

-The R. & D. Railroad authorities are putting up gates at the South Elm street crossing. We are glad to see that the Railroad authorities have concluded to make the "much needed improvement."

NOTICE.-The young men who have misbehaved at the meetings now being held at Centenary church, and who do not wish to see their names in print will take notice and act accordingly. First and last notice.

THE POPULATION INCREASES.-Mr. A. T. Vernon has sold the place on Murray street, built and owned by Mr. H. W. Dixon, to Mr. C. C. Pope, of Boynton, Va., who will settle his family here some time in the spring.

-The weather began to present a hazy appearance yesterday, and turned somewhat colder, and some people predicted snow, but a gentle rain came, and this morning gave us rather a mild temperature, but little changed from yesterday.

-The excavations for sewerage on South Elm and Washington streets are already quite far advanced, especially at the intersection of the two streets, and the amateur geologist can here find a convenient field in which to pursue the science. The diggers have opened up long concealed secrets of our mother clay. To some it may appear like a burial, but in fact it tends more to a resurrection of a town to put in an improvement like this. Greensboro is waking up indeed, thanks to the commissioners.

That Old, Corrupt Game,

Some of the good people of Durham, who have both principle and intelligence, have put themselves on a record against that old, but corrupt and corrupting practice of bringing offenders to the bar of justice, proving them guilty of the charges in the bill of indictment, and then suspending judgment on the payment of costs. While we have no doubt that there are cases where such a course might well be taken, yet in many such the game is one of most shameful abuse of law as well as an encouragement to repeat the offense.

We had occasion to observe the course of events in a certain indictment a number of years ago, where the officers of the law snatched a certain young colored man, who had been married to an uncivilized woman, under the plea of abandonment. And we recollect that on the trial the magistrate delivered himself very learnedly on the subject of abandonment, and how the woman in that case was likely to become a charge to the county. We soon discovered that the greatest fear was that the "Squire and his subaltern would fail to get their fee. The man went to jail, and there contributed to the salary of the jailer; next, he was brought into the court, and made to contribute to the fees of the clerk and the lawyer, and when the poor fellow had been dragged through the torturous lane of judicial proceeding, the cat jumped out of the bag. Dismissed on the payment of costs!

We had understood that such proceedings were intended to vindicate the law; but we were mistaken. It vindicated nothing of that sort. It said to the offender, "Go home. If you do the like again, we will have another chance at you." But the worst cases are such as those existing at Durham, where with a small part of the profit made by retailing whiskey in violation of the Local Option law, certain bold offenders expect to pay the cost of prosecution in money and then continue the violation of law. It is against this shameful of law that the good people of Durham are rising up, and we predict that with such determination as they manifest the law will be vindicated, and justice not be mocked with such co-operation between the people and the daily press of Durham-unless the co-operation is more feeble than appears-the law breakers will go under. Judge Bynum is holding the court.

Nomination of Senator

The Democratic nominating caucus of the North Carolina Legislature met last night and on the second ballot nominated Hon. M. W. Ransom to succeed himself in the U. S. Senate. A second ballot followed, which resulted-Ransom, 69; Waddell, 15; Alexander, 26; Jarvis, 9; Clingman, 1; Kitchen, 1.

Subsequently Messrs. Ransom, Jarvis, Alexander and Waddell came in and made brief speeches on the occasion.

Peach Blossoms.

From Mr. G. L. Anthony, who lives at Vandalia, three miles south of town, we have a box of peach blossoms, "just to show," as he says, "what we have the 15th of January." He says, further: "The trees they were cut from are in nursery rows-varieties, Peento, Bidwell's Early, Bidwell's Late-all Florida varieties." This shows how mild the winter has been. We hear of strawberry blossoms where the plants have been covered slightly with straw.
