Leftwich, formerly of Greensboro, but lately of Richmond, Va., is here on a visit of some days among his friends. Mr. J. T. Crooker, who was here to-day on his way home to Asheboro from the University Commencement, tells us that the train was expected to reach Asheboro to day. Mr. H. B. The Daily Workman.

Vol. 7. Greensboro, N. C., Friday, June 7, 1889. No. 5.

—Mr. C. D. Benbow, who has been to Piedmont Springs and is here on a visit, states that the new hotel will probably not open before the 15th inst in consequence of the washouts on the railroads which have interrupted transportation of supplies. —We were pleased to see here to-day Mr. J. M. Goad, of Chattanooga, Tenn., who is general agent of the National Building and Loan Association of New York, and who is engaged in establishing branches of the parent institution throughout the South.

FOR THE SUFFERERS.—Acting upon a suggestion in these columns yesterday, that a fund be contributed by our citizens to relieve the sufferers by the flood in Pennsylvania, Dr. Wakefield came in and made the first response to the call. The list is now open.

—One of the touching incidents of the great Pennsylvania flood is related in the following style: "A little girl passed under the bridge just before dark. She was kneeling on a part of a floor and had her hands clasped, as if in prayer. Every effort was made to save her, but they all proved futile."

AT THE UNIVERSITY.—The exercises of the State University at the close of the late term were enhanced in interest by the fact that they marked the centennial year of the Institution. A number of prominent gentlemen were present and made interesting speeches, among them Col. Chas. S. Venable, President of the University of Va., ex-minister, J. L. M. Curry, of Richmond and Prof. Shepherd, of S. C.

—"One of the most masterly and eloquent sermons ever heard in this city," is what the Danville Register says of the baccalaureate sermon preached before the pupils of the Danville College for Young Ladies, last Sunday night, by Rev. Dr. Tudor, of Norfolk. The Dr. preached just such a sermon before the pupils of G. F. College a year or two since, and those who were privileged to hear it can easily believe that the Register doesn't exaggerate.

—The pastor and elders of the 1st. Presbyterian church will meet again in the Lecture Room at 5 o'clock on Saturday the 8th inst. for the examination and reception of applicants for membership and communion in the church of Christ. Immediately after the sermon on Sabbath morning there will be a congregational meeting held to take steps to complete the subscription for the erection of a new house of worship. J. HERY SMITH.

—O. M. Vanstory, the high man with low prices, is offering big bargains in Summer Clothing and Straw Hats, as seen in his ad to day. These hats were not made of the straws that "show which way the wind blows," nor the "last straw that broke the camels back," nor the "three straws" that a man said he wouldn't "give for the difference," but good, clean, nice, new, fine straw that grew expressly for HATS. Nor is the Clothing second hand, unless, after you wear it until you get tired of it, you sell it to a second hand dealer.

AN ACCIDENT.—Rev. J. R. Ball of this city, received a dispatch yesterday, from Miss Randolph, principal of Edgemoor School, near Charlottesville, Va., that his little daughter, Lucy, a pupil in the school, had by some means, not stated, broken her arm. By reason of the severe illness of his eldest daughter, now at home, Bro. Ball found it impracticable to go over to Edgemoor, and leaves the patient there to the care of Miss Randolph, assured that every needed attention will be given to repair the injury received. Meanwhile the afflicted father and mother deserve the kindly sympathy and prayers of all in their hour of trial.

To Our Patrons. Our experience of one month in our new way of doing business—viz: "Cash on Delivery," impels us to return our sincere thanks to our many friends, who by their custom, enables us to say that the past month has been the MOST SATISFACTORY, in our business career. 'Tis true we have lost some few friends who could not comply with our terms, but our gain from new customers far exceeds our most sanguine expectations.

The increase in our Bakery has been most remarkable; and if at any time we have been unable to supply the great demand made on us, it was not caused by any dereliction of duty on our part, but because human foresight could not provide for the great demand made at the time. A positive observance of our rule, and selling our goods at the VERY LOWEST PRICES at which they can be handled, will mark our dealings in the future as during the past month, and we solicit your continued patronage and the patronage of your friends. Yours respectfully, T. S. Shelton & Co.
