LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

How THE THERMOMETER STANDS.—The state of the thermometer is taken by Dr. Benbow, at the Benbow House, at the hour of 12 m. each day: Oct. 1, 71 degrees. 2, 69. 3, 69. 4, 70. 5, 68. 6, 58. 7, 59. 8, 59. 9, 66. 10, 72. 11, 76. 12, 79. 13, 67. 14, 68. 15, 62. 16, 69.

—Sam Jones is forty-two years old today. —The Southbound train was about one hour late this morning. —We learn that Col. L. L. Polk has accepted an invitation to deliver an address at Atlanta on the 24 inst. —Young Men's Prayer Meeting at Westminster Church tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Subject—Prayer. All the young men are cordially invited and are urged to attend. —Three girls ranging from 17 to 19 years of age made their escape Monday from the House of the Good Shepherd in New York. They had been committed by the Soc. for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. —It is reported that a syndicate, one of which is W. K. Vanderbilt is to build an aristocratic hotel on the Hudson, ten miles from Albany, the cost of which is to be $1,000,000. The New York Central is to put up a depot at that place. Sulphur Springs and a grape cure establishment will be among the attractions of the place.

—The Fire Co. received a very neat testimonial from Messrs. Cartland & Phipps yesterday, in the form of an acknowledgment of services rendered by the Co. at the recent fire in South Greensboro. —Judge Gilmer, D. F. Caldwell, J. W. Scott, W. E. Beville, B. G. Glenn, D. W. C. Benbow, A. Hodgkin and wife, Will Benbow and wife and J. H. Jackson, all took the 8 o'clock train this morning for the State Fair.

—Dr. E. R. Michaux and Mr. Ernest Tate returned this morning from the mountains of the western part of the State, where Mr. Tate has been sick with fever, and has not been able to make the trip home until now. —Our friend, Watson Redding, of Randleman, was bitten by a long legged black spider recently, and so severe was the poison that his life was in danger, and the services of the doctor were called in. Mr. Redding has now recovered, and the spider is bottled up for inspection.

—Mr. Alec Wilson, of Franklin county, was here this morning, and went down home on the eastbound train. Mr. Wilson is one of the most prosperous farmers of his county, and is a first cousin of Major James Wilson of Morganton, the engineer of the Western N. C. Railroad.

—Gov. Hill of New York and party who passed through Greensboro yesterday on their way to the Atlanta Exposition, paid a visit to the Pres. while in Washington. Mr. Hill also made a personal call upon Hon. Sam. J. Randall. Mr. Randall is not yet well and is not allowed to leave his bedroom.

—It is not generally known that by recent acts of Congress, that several thousand Indians have been entitled to the right of suffrage. Every Indian that receives an allotment of land in severalty is entitled to all the privileges of an elector. According to this act, it is thought that in Dakota there are now about 5000 Indians that are voters. A great deal of speculation is going on in Washington as to the effect that the "red man" will have on politics in the states where they most abound. At the Interior Department it is thought that there will be fully 20,000 Indian voters by the next presidential election.

—New York was in darkness Monday night. The Brush and the U. S. electric light companies cut off all circuits Monday afternoon. These are the two largest electric companies in the city. Broadway was an undistinguishable "mass of blackness" after 10 o'clock, and many of the usually brilliantly lighted houses on some of the most popular thoroughfares stood forth as great blocks dressed in all the blackness of a dark and stormy night. The people seemed to take all the inconveniences arising from the absence of light, in the best of humor, in fact, they could not well complain, after so strongly demanding that the poles must come down.

—A young man about 18 years old put up at the Puritan Hotel, New York, Saturday, saying that he was not feeling well, that he had the toothache, and that he did not wish to be disturbed. There was no further notice given to him until Sunday night, when the proprietor sent up to the room the young man had rented; as it was dark and no response could be had from within, it was decided to force the door. The young man was found lying on the bed dead. He had been dead for several hours as he was quite cold. A chloroform towel was spread over his face. He had registered himself as George P. Morris, and from letters found on his person, it was learned that he had two sisters in Baltimore.

—Gov. Hill in his speech in Charlotte yesterday said he had been in the "Tar Heel State" ever since 10 o'clock, and hadn't got any tar on his heels yet. He expressed gratification over being in Mecklenburg, where the First Declaration of Independence was signed. He then retired and the crowd yelled for Flower, who came out in a smoking cap and made a little speech in which he said he hoped our Senators and Congressmen would use their influence to have the World's Fair in New York. He said if it were to be a State affair, he would say hold it in Charlotte or Atlanta or Memphis or St. Louis or some other big city, but as it was the World's Fair he wanted it in New York.

The Requisitions of the Age. There is a great deal required of the people of the present generation in order that the world may progress in the future as we have a right to expect from its progress in the past. And of all people, we know of none of whom there is more required than of the people of the U. S.

Their progress is without a parallel in the history of the world, and they have an obligation to perform, which to escape, they must quit the country and go where the people are not bound to promote the general welfare and secure the blessings of liberty to themselves and to their posterity.

While our progress in the past and the advantages we now enjoy are so great, as to make our requirements a subject worthy of serious thought, many evils have arisen and many dangers have appeared, so that to know what we ought to do, because a matter about which we should have anxious solicitude.

While we are unwilling to think that these evils forebode any great danger to our institutions and government, yet some do, and farseeing men have predicted that the next century will witness the overthrow of our government; even Lord Macaulay declared it to be his belief, that the 20th century would make revelations, which if known to the people of the U. S., would cause their blood to run cold.

While but few people of the U. S. are prepared to give this belief, yet it can not be denied by even the most hopeful that there are certain symptoms visible that are not favorable to the perpetuity of republican institutions.

Among these may be mentioned the centralization of capital, the formation of rich and powerful syndicates that dictate to the people what they shall pay for nearly every article they buy and that what they shall sell for nearly every thing they sell. Now what must be done that these evils shall do no harm and that our progress shall continue? It becomes us to stop and think of these things now, while we are just entering upon the second century of our existence as a nation, now while we are near the close of another century of Christianity, that we may know what is required in order that the history of the next century may tell of the continued growth and development of the U. S., and that we may show to the world that we are worthy of our descent.
