WHY NOT HAVE IT?

WHAT A TAX-PAYER HAS TO SAY ABOUT A STREET SPRINKLER.

EDITOR WORKMAN:—Permit me through your columns to urge on our City Commissioners the necessity of a sprinkling cart to lay the dust in our streets. The spasmodic efforts of individuals to do so by squirting water with a hose over a small space is altogether ineffective, or at best of not much avail on a windy day.

The city pays a big rent for water; the additional cost should only be the amount required to purchase a sprinkling cart and the wages of a driver for, one of the fire engine horses could be exercised in this business as it would at no time be remote from the engine house in case of a fire alarm, and the comfort to our citizens would amply repay any slight increase in taxes. The merchants should press this matter on the city council for not only does the dust injure their goods but it prevents their lady customers from going out to do shopping unless it be to purchase something imperatively needed.

Another thing, there is a municipal election coming on and I think the commissioners who will grant this very reasonable boon may count on the support of their constituents. Yours Respectfully,

TAX PAYER.

Centenary Church.

At the Quarterly Conference held at Centenary Church on Monday night last, the question as to the advisability of going forward now and having a vestibule added to the church was fully considered, and it was decided by a unanimous vote to push the matter at once. Upon the advisability of undertaking the work now, and upon all things relating to an immediate execution of our plans, the unanimity of the Conference was noticeable, and presages a consummation of our desire at an early date.

The design adopted by the Conference is very beautiful and will be alike serviceable and ornate.

A finance committee, consisting of Brothers Stamey, Love, and Hodgins, was appointed, who will wait upon the people of our community. Let every one of our members respond to the call of the committee in proportion to his love for our growing church and the structure will be erected without much effort. Let each of us not only give to this worthy object, but work for it.

Trogdon Building For Sale.

This building is situated on West Market street, Greensboro, N. C. Size of lot 51 1-2 feet on West Market, 300 feet through to Gaston street. The building is of brick, and metal roof, containing three splendid store rooms, each with French plate-glass fronts, iron columns and sill plates. A full story dry basement under each store, well lighted and ventilated. Perfect sewerage from under basement floors. Counters and shelving in hard oil finish. The second and third stories are divided into twelve rooms, consisting of dining room, kitchen and bed rooms. Each room has two large windows, sash hung with weights. Fireplace or flue in each room. Large back yard. Back and front stairways. The inside is hard oil finish yellow pine, with water and gas pipes throughout. The second and third stories are now used for a first-class boarding house, but are well located for small hotel or private residence. The store rooms are well located for business of any kind and are situated in the center of the city, within three hundred feet of the Court House, Banks and Post Office. There is also a smoke stack built in one corner of the building large enough for a sixty-horse power engine, and an elevator through basement, first, second and third stories.

This splendid building was erected in 1885, and cost, with the ground upon which it stands, Nine Thousand and Five Hundred Dollars, and is now paying a good interest on the investment. The owner wishes to sell the property so as to use the money in a manufacturing business, and offers the property at the remarkably low price of Ten Thousand Dollars. West Market street is soon to be paved and otherwise improved. So look out and do not miss a good chance to make some money. Ten Thousand Dollars is not boom price, but a bargain that will pay a handsome profit, boom or no boom. Apply to J. M. Winstead, Cashier Piedmont Bank, or to W. F. Trogdon, Greensboro, N. C.

CHARLOTTE'S PROGRESS.

Charlotte Chronicle: Charlotte is growing rapidly. New houses are completed and the building of others commenced almost every week. During the last three months numbers have been placed on 36 new buildings, and there is now a larger number of buildings in the course of erection than there has been in a long time.

KEMMLER, who made himself famous by the commission of the crime of murder, will have his notoriety greatly enhanced by being the first victim of the electric current sent out under the seal of the State.

Blow Your Horn.

To the public: Section four of chapter six of the city ordinances has been amended by the Board of Aldermen at their last meeting, as now amended reads as follows:

A Thing of the Past.

It will not be a great while now until it will be difficult to find a person whose mother and sisters handled the cards and the old fashioned spinning wheel, relics of the by-gone days.

But let us not forget the toils of these good old mothers who clothed their household by the work of their own hands, read their bibles, prayed in their closets three times a day and attended church faithfully on week days. They had piles of home-made bed quilts and counterpanes, and baked pies until there was no use. We revere these old heroines.

How easy it is for the people of a great city like New York to fall out. The people of the city have fallen out with Sheriff Flack and his deputies; the politicians have fallen out among themselves; husbands and wives have fallen out and are suing for divorce; people fall out of windows and from the roofs of houses, and, stranger than all, numbers of men and women have fallen out with themselves and committed suicide, under the mistaken idea that they get rid of themselves in that way. A miserable mistake.
