SUDDEN AND SAD.

TAKES THE WRONG MEDICINE AND DIES IN FIFTEEN MINUTES.

Our citizens living in the vicinity of West Gaston Street and court house square were startled about 11 o'clock last night by the report of a hurrying messenger in quest of Dr. Glenn to hasten him to the home of Mr. Geo. T. Terrell, whose wife's mother, Mrs. Sarah Chamberlain, had by mistake swallowed a large dose of the fluid extract of nuxvomica in place of a tonic remedy which she had been taking under the direction of her physician. But the drug, in the quantity which Mrs. Chamberlain had taken—a large swallow or more—ten to fifteen drops being the maximum dose—was deadly, and before the Doctor arrived the patient was dead.

The circumstances, as detailed to our reporter, are about as follows: It was between 10 and 11 o'clock last night Mrs. Chamberlain occupied a room to herself. A short while, but no one knows how long, after the drug had been swallowed, Mrs. Terrell heard some one fall in Mrs. Chamberlain's room, and running to ascertain the cause she found that after falling to the floor Mrs. Chamberlain had recovered herself and was lying on the bed. In a broken way she said to her daughter, "I've taken the wrong medicine. Take hold of my feet and pull them; I have the cramp." These were her last words, for speech then failed her, and in the space of fifteen minutes she was dead.

This sad affair furnishes its own comment on the danger of confounding the harmless with the deadly drug, and should serve as a warning against our habitual carelessness.

The Salem Orchestra Concert.

Large numbers of people will, of course, hold themselves in readiness for the rare entertainment which awaits them for Thursday night next, when the Salem Orchestra will appear here in Benbow Hall. To-morrow we will furnish a notice more at length and more plainly set forth facts which bear upon the subject—The notice, we regret to say, came in too late for this evening's paper.

Funeral Notice.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Chamberlain will be held from the First Presbyterian church to-morrow morning at 9 1/2 o'clock. The interment will be at Greene Hill Cemetery.

About Iron and Steel.

A friend has favored us with a copy of the Engineering and Mining Journal, of New York, for March 29th, in which we find two articles relating to affairs in North Carolina. The first is an announcement which has heretofore appeared, with a correction, as to the report about the failure of Southern ores for the purpose of making Bessemer pig, with also the moral to Southern ironmasters: "Do not attempt to ship your pig iron to Northern markets, but convert it first into steel by the basic open hearth process, and then you can ship it anywhere." This is very good. The second is an article from an occasional correspondent in North Carolina who presents the main facts as to the North Carolina Steel and Iron Company, located in this city. After giving some other preliminary facts, the writer goes on to speak as follows:

It is proposed to build at an early date, two furnaces, each of 75 tons daily capacity—one for Bessemer pig, and the other for mill and foundry iron—and ultimately to build rolling mills and develop other industries for the utilization of the products of the furnaces. Greensboro is near the center of a region in which a number of beds of ore have been described by Lesley, Kerr, Wilbur, Smith and others, as of excellent quality for the manufacture of good iron and steel.

This is all in the line of our growing interests, and is entirely devoid of exaggeration.

Herring Row and Other Things.

An observant gentleman who sells nice goods across the way came in smiling this morning and said that there was a rumor out that Dr. Benbow would shortly tear down the wooden houses between Houston's and the corner of Sycamore and South Elm Street, known as "Herring Row," and put up modern brick stores in their stead. This so stirred the sensibilities of our automatic rhyme grinder that it rattled off the following before the engineer could throw off the band:

O Herring Row of long ago,
Frail pile of moss and tinder;
No mortal man on earth can show,
Why you are not a cinder.

Just here the belt was thrown off, and the grinder as it came to a stop stammered out something about savory snacks, fish and oysters, clean shave, &c., &c., and then stood still.

Wesley's Opinion.

Wesley Smith was in conversation with a gentleman the other day, when the action of the colored convention held in this city was mentioned.

Wesley criticised the action of the convention, and said that the leaders in the movement were going back on the Republican party

"But," says the gentleman, "Wesley, I understand that it is charged that there is no opposition to the convention, except a few spittoon cleaners and low-down niggers."

"I ain't no nigger," says Wesley. "Dar never was but one nigger, and de preachers doan preach about but one nigger in de Bible."

"Who was he?" inquired the gentleman.

"Doan you know?" responded Wesley; "why it was nigger Demis."

THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

THE COMMENCEMENT THIS YEAR WILL BE AN OCCASION OF INTEREST.

The usual and long standing order of exercises of the State University Commencement will hereafter be changed so that instead of all day Wednesday of commencement week being occupied by a speaker and preachers from abroad, the sermon will be delivered on Sunday before and Wednesday will be given up entirely to the alumni. On that day the alumni association will meet, deliberate on measures for the advancement of the interests of the Institution, have a social reunion and see and greet old friends and dine together. But the chief event will be the alumni address before the association and visitors. This is to have a practical significance. The various denominational colleges of the State all have agents in the clergymen of the churches to which they respectively belong. The University has no agents except its alumni. It is heartily wished that every one of these may be greatly interested in the welfare of the Institution. The University needs an endowment. An effort will be made at the coming commencement to "start the ball rolling" by endowing a choir of History—a choir very much needed now.

The alumni address will directly tend to this end, and instead of the speaker being a man from abroad who is entirely uninterested in its success except in a general way, he will be a friend and one who is willing to contribute his efforts to the end desired.

An effort will be made to so amend the University charter that the alumni may elect a certain per cent. of the trustees of the Institution. An effort will also be made to organize branch alumni associations in the prominent towns of the State. Raleigh and Goldsboro already have them. Greensboro should have one. Some of its most prominent citizens are alumni. Let them start that "ball rolling."

Another Cigarette Victim.

Wakefield W. Price, of Salisbury, 18 years of age, died of meningitis at Salisbury last Friday night. The doctor, however, said he would not have died but for the effect of cigarette smoking. This is the same as to attribute the death of the young man to the cigarette, and is after the style of strong drink, when a man, after following the drink habit for a number of years is attacked with heart failure. The stimulant of whiskey, which would now bring him around all right, cannot be employed with success. The heart fails to respond to the remedy, which has been habitually abused, and the patient dies of heart failure. But he wouldn't have died but for the whiskey. These twin destroyers are loose in the community.

Notice.

The adjourned annual meeting of the stockholders of THE NORTH CAROLINA STEEL AND IRON COMPANY will be held in the room of the Chamber of Commerce, Greensboro, N. C., on the fourth Wednesday, April 23rd 1890, at 12 o'clock, noon.

S. H. WILEY, Secretary.
