"Freak" Homes Not Wise

He who builds a house does not build for himself alone. A house is part of a community. As such it is subjected to continued scrutiny and comparison. The builder of a well-designed and beautiful home becomes recognized as a person of good taste and sound judgment. Artistic effect is very much to be desired also from the standpoint of the owner himself. It adds to property values. In the exterior design of the house it is well to place reliance upon well-established types of architecture and not resort to the unusual or the untried. Odd or unusual designs often become tiresome; they are likely to be expensive and inharmonious as well.

You do not want poultry unless it is tender and fresh, and that is the only kind
