THE VALUE OF A SMILE.

The things that go the farthest toward making life worth while, that costs the least and does the most, is just a pleasant smile.

Late hours are shadows from the grave.

The present time is the raw material out of which we make whatever we will. Do not brood over the past, or dream of the future, but seize the instant and get your lesson from the hour.

"Is your father rich?" someone asked a five year old girl and the little one replied confidently, "Why, of course! He's got me."

We sometimes hear a clergyman consoling a mother, distracted over the death of her darling child, by telling her that a mysterious Providence has taken it from her for wise reasons.

In the same family and under the same circumstances one rears a stately edifice, while his brother, vacillating and incompetent, lives forever amid the ruins.

Labor, the mighty magician, walks forth into a reign unchallenged and waste; he looks earnestly at scene, so quiet in its desolation, then weaving his wondrous working wand, those dreary valleys smile with golden harvests.

SEND THEM TO SCHOOL.

It is often asked why the boys and girls do not attend school longer. Many—by far too many—of them drop out at ten or twelve, and it is seldom that the boys attend after their fourteenth or fifteenth year.

as well as a better business man by having a good education. Your daughter will be a better housekeeper, a better wife and a better mother by having all the advantages that the public schools of our lands afford.

Just a few words to the boys and girls. If you have the opportunity do not waste it. Make your school days count to the best advantage. It means work, of course it does, but you need never expect to get anything of value without an equivalent.

CENTRAL INDUSTRIAL INSTITUTE NOTES

The Joint Debate—Whispers of a Reception for the Boys and Girls—Other Interesting Notes by the Eureka Society.

School work is again moving and our fever scare seems to be entirely over.

The military company organized by Mr. Hodge Tuesday afternoon is proving a success and we hope the good work will go on.

A Physical Culture class will be organized among the girls Wednesday afternoon. We hope the girls will all take part in this exercise as it will prove very beneficial.

It is being whispered around that there is an exception in preparation for the school boys and girls, to be given at the girls' dormitory. Anticipations of the occasion are already becoming great.

Miss Maud Shields spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents, returning to school Monday.

Miss Laura Waldrop went home on a visit Saturday and has not yet returned. She is greatly missed and we hope to soon have her back.

Mr. McDowell, of S. C., was gladly welcomed into our school last Monday.

So far, the talent of the Eureka society is not fully developed. We are already enabled to see indications of what it may be in the future and we will make it a point to keep you posted as to any progress we may make along this line.

It seems that some of our number are noted for attracting foreigners, who have to ride on both train and buggy to reach us. Still there are others that tend in a different direction. They lend their charms to cheer up old age. From all appearance they are making a decided success.

The joint session of the Literary societies was a very enjoyable occasion. Mr. Jones had his first experience as president. He served to the credit of his society. All agree that Miss Laura Waldrop makes a graceful Secretary. The subject resolved "that the U. S. owes more to Navigation than to Railroads" was discussed by Mr. Hill and Miss Iva Hampton on the affirmative and Mr. Green and Miss Pantha Lattimore on the negative.

A Tribute of Respect. Whereas, God, the Supreme Ruler of the Universe, on the 18th of September, 1904, entered our ranks and removed our beloved brother, A. C. Robertson, to fields above.

Brother Robertson was about seventy-two years of age, had been a member of the I. O. O. F. at Glassy Mountain, S. C., for thirty years. He was a deacon of Mountain Page Baptist Church, Henderson County, N. C. and had been a consistent member of that church for many years.

And, whereas, he was just changing his membership to our lodge, Green River Lodge, No. 253, I. O. O. F., a lodge recently instituted, we realize that our Order has lost an honored and worthy member and a wise counsellor; the country a loyal, honest, upright, christian citizen; the community a kind and accommodating neighbor; the church a faithful and earnest worker, and his family a devoted husband and a loving father.

First. That while we bow in humble submission to the will of a just God, we cannot but feel that a great void is made in our lodge by the loss of our brother.

Second. That our hearts ache in sympathy for those dear ones in the home who were so faithful and attentive to him, his last days.

Third. That we commend his family to the care and guidance of the Supreme Ruler of the Universe, whom he loved and trusted and He who doeth all things well.

Fourth. That we will ever try to emulate his many virtues, cherish his memory and hope to meet him in that temple not made with hands eternal in the heavens.

Fifth. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Western North Carolina Times, The Polk County News, The Greenville (S. C.) News and The Tri-State Odd Fellow, with the request that they be published and also that a copy be sent to family of deceased and a copy of the same be spread upon the minutes of this lodge.

I. D. MORRIS, M. A. PACE, A. G. HILL, Committee.

Green River Lodge, No. 253, I. O. O. F. Saluda, N. C., Sept. 26th, 1904.

THE ELECTRIC ENGINE.

Is Beginning of End in Sight for Steam Locomotive?

Although it has been one of the greatest factors in the development of this country, the steam locomotive is doomed. The expanding, puffing, screeching monster, belching clouds of smoke and showering cinders, must give way to the electric motor, without noise or dirt, for the transportation of both freight and passenger trains.

Years ago it was demonstrated that for passenger traffic on short lines in densely populated districts electricity was in every way superior to steam as a motive power.

While reluctantly admitting that fact managers of steam railways declared that for long distance passenger trains and freight trains electric power would be inadequate, excessive in cost, and therefore impracticable. It was claimed that until electricity could be generated without the use of steam it would be more economical and efficient to use steam direct in engines.

Actual tests made recently have demonstrated that the cost of transportation is greater by the steam engine than by the electric engine. A steam train of five cars and a standard engine weigh 330 tons, and will accommodate 168 passengers. It uses at full speed 1,400 horse-power. The electric motor and four trailer cars weigh 260 tons, seat 180 passengers, and use 1,000 horse-power. The electric train weighs less, uses less horse-power, carries more passengers and goes faster.

Some half dozen railway in this country have followed the lead of the New York

Central and arranged to use electric power on portions of their lines now being operated at a loss with steam power. Practical tests made on the Lackawanna and Wyoming roads, owned by the Westinghouse Company, show an economy of 30 per cent, as compared with the steam system.

Steam railway managers elsewhere are exceedingly interested in results being secured on the Ballston extension of the Schenectady Railroad, where cars are run with alternating current equipment just perfected. The motors used can be run either from a 2,000 volt alternating current, stepped down in the car to 400 volts, or from 600-volt direct current. The electric railway motors in general use are operated, as is well known, by a direct current with a trolley voltage of about 600 volts.

It is claimed that the new motor, which can use direct or alternating currents of widely-varying voltage, has cleared the way for the adoption of electric power for light or heavy trains, freight or passenger, on lines of any length.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.
