NIGHT RIDERS IN NORTH CAROLINA.

North Carolina has been indeed, fortunate in being free from the night riderism which has existed to the disgrace of a number of southern states. From the reports and newspapers, we learn with regret and mortification that this anarch is about to invade the Old North State. It is reported that a number of Cleveland county farmers have received notices from the night riders warning them against having their cotton ginned, while cotton is at such a low price. Through this malicious act of several cowards, the whole county of Cleveland is reflected upon and every eye is turned towards her watching future developments. We are satisfied that the good people of Cleveland are down on such lawlessness and feel that every effort will be made by the law-abiding citizens to suppress this pending evil. That the Farmer's Union would sanction such outrages is beyond question, for the union is composed of good, religious citizens and if anyone would entertain such thoughts we beg them to dispell them from their minds at once.

If attempts at this lawlessness would be made in Polk, we know that every good citizen would drive the offenders out of the county, as they would rightfully deserve.

TO THE HERALD.

We note with pleasure, the opening of a news paper in Forest City, with C. V. Fowles and C. L. Hoyt as editors and proprietors. These men are well qualified to give the citizens of Forest City a bright, clean sheet and it will go without saying that the success of the news paper is already assured if the citizens will give the paper their support. No news paper can exist without the support and co-operation of the citizens. To the Herald, we extend the glad hand of fellowship and wish for it the greatest success.
