SUITABLE FOR HUMAN FOOD

Nourishing Plants and Even Insects Capable of Sustaining Life, at a Pinch.

According to some reports great ingenuity in the use of scientific knowledge in extracting food values from unusual sources is being employed, the Baltimore Star states. There are many articles good for human food and wholesome food at that, which under ordinary conditions are not drawn upon at all. There are the angle worm, the grasshopper and fully a score of plants not ordinarily used as food which, properly prepared, constitute nourishing foods. It is perhaps only the most desperate and resolute sort of appetite that would stand for the earth worm, but they have been eaten even by highly civilized people and when properly prepared are said to be not so bad. Why should we be squeamish about the angle worm when we eat the oyster, stomach, lungs and everything but the shell?
As to grasshoppers they were an ancient delicacy and are yet so regarded by many races who know what's what in the way of good things to eat. All the grasses that are eaten by animals have nourishing juices. Clover and green timothy possess a higher food quality than cabbage or potatoes. Billed to tenderness they would prevent starvation. There have been famine periods when human beings have been obliged to eat field grasses and wild plant roots.

NOTICE OF SALE

EXPERT ADVISER ON DRESS

Woman Has Achieved Success in Occupation That Is Something of a Novelty.

I heard lately of a plan adopted by one young woman that has worked out well with her, and might be of use to someone else, says a writer in the Pittsburgh Dispatch. She lives at home, but must help the family exchequer, and this is how she does it:

Her one talent lay in her good taste in dress. She had an instinctive feeling for what was becoming, not only for herself but her friends, and was often called in to consult over a prospective new gown. So that is what she determined to do professionally. She let her friends know that for a certain sum she would give advice on costumes, helping to arrange a whole wardrobe, and from friends she soon branched out to regular clients.

She goes to the house of her employer and looks over everything the lady has. She gives definite instructions as to what each dress or suit or waist requires to bring it up to par. She advises as to the most becoming styles and colors, and lists what new garments are necessary. Of course she regulates the expenditure according to the purses of her various clients.

She has made a success. Many women do not know what to wear, what suits them best, what to put together. She tells them. She also saves them a good deal by her cleverness in adapting what looks hopeless. She can also tell where you should go for materials; she has addresses of tailors, dressmakers and sewing women, and knows they can do what they promise. She is thoroughly up in her chosen job, in fact. She also makes a point of attending carefully to the details of a costume, making sure that each item will harmonize. The work is extremely interesting, and it pays both her and her clients.

Uncle Billy of Pea Ridge

Pea Ridge news is scarce at present. Quite a number went from here to the dedication at Piedmont Baptist Church, in Rutherfordton County. Among those who went were; J. R. and Calvin Phillips, Mrs. John Fowler, Collette Fowler, Ewell Taylor and Rev. John Hodge. They report a large crowd and a fine time.

Misses Mammie and Gertrude, the charming daughters of Mrs. E. Taylor, visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Prichard last Sunday evening.

Mrs. W. L. Gibbs made a pleasant call at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Phillips, Sunday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. B. Z. Fowler a girl, to Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Fowler a girl, to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hodge twin girls.

Our Sunday School is progressing nicely, the best of the year. Large attendance and splendid music.

Grayson Prichard and Miss Mammie Painter were happily married at the home of W. M. Fowler. The ceremony was read by Esquire W. L. Gibbs on last Saturday eve. We extend to them our best wishes and a happy life.

We are sorry to note that Mrs. T. F. Roland has been on the sick list for several weeks. We are glad to say that she is improving at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Gentry of Asheville are visiting Mrs. Gentry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Roland.

Mrs. James Russell returned to her former home at Chesnee, S. C., after a few days visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Roland.

When you want good corn bread go to T. F. Roland's mill.

The farmers are having some fine weather for working their crops for the past few days.

T. F. Rawland goes on the road Monday as traveling salesman, he is an expert in his line.
Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Gibbs visited Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Gibbs, Sunday.
E. G. Thompson, one of our most prosperous farmers will soon be in the harvest field with his reaper and binder.
Hurrah for The News! Let's make it more interesting.
