THE GIFT THAT KEEPS ON GIVING

Mrs. Lila Masson of Detroit, Michigan—Mrs. America—shares her joy with all Americans in receiving a U. S. Savings Bond among her gifts. She says the gift was particularly appropriate, since regular buying of Savings Bonds is a family habit in the Masson home. The gift of an extra Bond during the Yule season is something she recommends to every family.

County and was reared in the town of Wallace, where he attended Clement School. He graduated from Trinity College (now Duke) in 1919 with a major in engineering.

Williams was reared in Wadley, Georgia, and Kingstree, South Carolina, holds an electrical engineering degree from Clemson College, and joined CP&L as cadet engineer. He was promoted to senior engineer in 1948 and will assume duties as head of the Substation Design Group January 1. The seven-man group has the responsibility for the design, preparation of plans and specifications, and expediting construction of substations throughout the company's two-state territory.

After leaving Trinity, Hanchey worked briefly with the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad in Wilmington and with a St. Louis electric firm. He returned to North Carolina and joined CP&L as a meterman at Raleigh in 1920. He moved up to draftsman, chief draftsman, and design and construction engineer. He was promoted to head the Design Group in 1941.

Hanchey is a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and Raleigh Engineers Club and is a registered professional engineer. He is an active member of Edenton Street Methodist Church. He views his coming retirement as the end of a happy relationship with employees "willing to lend a helping hand, in all conditions, at work and at play, to one another and to the community." He describes CP&L as a "good citizen" in the 350 communities it serves.

His most rewarding experience has been in "getting along with and holding the friendship and respect of those I worked with... regardless of organizational changes and changes in methods of doing the job." Hanchey expects to spend much of his retirement in visiting the Carolina coast, where he has a beach cottage, in his hometown of Wallace and in Raleigh, maintaining business contacts and family ties. Mrs. Hanchey is the former Mary Susan Noblin of Oxford.
