Warsaw Businesses Plan Family Discount Night

As many of the businesses as it was possible to contact on short notice was represented at a meeting on Wednesday of last week to discuss plans for our Annual Family Discount Night, advertised elsewhere in this paper.

Practically every type of business in town, including the banks was represented and showed much enthusiasm for this project. It should, however, be remembered that some of our merchants that operate chain stores might not be able to go along on the discount idea, but most will remain open for this night and some other nights until Christmas for the convenience of their customers.

Discussion was held as to the days the stores will remain closed for Christmas this year. For various reasons all could not agree to close on Saturday following Christmas. The decision was left to the discretion of each individual business.

Last, but not least, was our unanimous agreement that we have all been inconsiderate of our customers as far as providing convenient parking spaces that should have been left for the shoppers, which mean so much to us. It was agreed among those present; that we would be personally responsible for having our employees cooperate with us in parking back of the town hall, across the railroad and back of other businesses leaving all the spaces possible available at all times to the customers. In the meantime we hope to have regular monthly meetings to discuss anything that we can do for the convenience as drawing business from the surrounding areas.

As a result of this meeting several of our business people met with the Town Board and explained our situation and our desires for the present. The Board voted to light the area in back of the town hall and mark off spaces that should take care of approximately 40 cars immediately. This will be ample for people working in this area, thereby leaving all other spaces open.

We feel that united we can
