THE BIATHLON

The Biathlon is a combined skiing and rifle shooting event.

It was added to the Winter Games during the 1960 Olympics. The Biathlon unites the endurance and skill necessary for long distance cross-country skiing racing with the concentration and care essential for excellent rifle marksmanship.

The competitors traverse a 20 kilometer course (12.5 miles) stopping four times to fire at targets at a distance of 150 meters. At the first and third stops the shooting is done in the prone position; at the second and fourth stops shooting is in the standing position. The winner is the person scoring the lowest total time for skiing the course plus added penalty time based on his shooting performance. Biathlon shooting consists of twenty (20) shots, five fired each of the four times the shooter comes to the target area. The biathlete skis five (5) kilometers before the initial firing point is reached and at least three (3) kilometers are travelled between the following firing positions. The skiing time of each competitor is clocked and two minutes are added for each shot missed.

TARGET WOODS GUN ROOM

NATIONAL RIFLE ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA

The U.S. Biathlon Championship was Charles Kellogg. His "Running Time" was 1 hour, 20 minutes and 44 seconds (1:20:44). His shooting penalty was 8 minutes (8) giving him a Total Time of 1 hour 28 minutes and 44 seconds (1:28:44).

The majority of U. S. competitors are former collegiate cross-country skiers who became interested in this event after entering the military service.

The Army has a Biathlon Training Center at Fort Richardson, Alaska, where facilities are provided at the training center. An example of the fine coaches provided is M/Sgt. Clyde W. Burns, USA. Sgt. Burns, co-author of Sking and Shooting, and a Distinguished Rifleman is presently assigned as Rifle Coach/Instructor with the U. S. Biathlon Team. He is a former coach and operation's sergeant with the Army Marksmanship Training Unit, Ft. Benning, Georgia.

The U. S. has sent biathlon competitors to World Championships and Olympics since 1958. An eighth place in 1959 World Championships is the best showing by an American biathlete in international games.

Biathlon rules permit the use of a rifle of any caliber up to 8 mm. It must be a manually operated rifle capable of firing shots singly and may not have telescopic sights. The rifle used by most U. S. competitors is the Winchester Model 70 action with 28" medium-heavy barrel in caliber . 308.

The shooting is usually done under adverse conditions. Normal outdoor conditions are of course present; wind, temperature, light and reflection. In addition to these, high pulse and respiration rates, possible falling snow, and increasing fatigue combine to affect the shooter's marksmanship. Other factors such as proper trigger control in extremely cold weather and the steam, created by the warm body temperature of the contestant and the generally cold air, tend to harass the shooter.

The Rosendale Nordic Ski Club at Rosedale, New York, in cooperation with the U.S. Ski Association (USSA) will hold on January 23rd, the 1966 U.S. Biathlon Championships. This event is sanctioned by the U. S. Modern Pentathlon Association and will determine the selection of the U. S. team which will compete in the World Biathlon Championships at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany early in February.

The Biathlon is an event that is run as the old saying goes, "all together, simultaneously and at the same time." This is perhaps the greatest appeal and undoubtedly is its biggest challenge.

COMMUNITY BUILDING Monday afternoon with nineteen members present. Mrs. Ruby John Smith, president, presided.

Mrs. Mae Spicer gave a demonstration on Flower Arrangements in the home. Mr. Sam Smith, safety chairman, gave a leaders report on Home Safety. Mrs. Jerry Smith and Mrs. Johnny Agnes Smith gave a preview of crafts they had made at knitting school, as leaders reports on Arts and Crafts.

The hostesses, Mrs. Michael Aldridge and Mrs. Earl Williams, served refreshments of mixed cookies, potato chips, easter eggs, and iced drinks.
