Eliminating Costly Rats Requires Year-Round Plan

Each year rats cause an estimated one billion dollars in damage to food, property, humans and livestock in the United States.

Research indicates that the damage caused by the rodents is equal to the total production of more than 100,000 average farms.

Each rat costs about $20 or more per year to board, according to Vernon Cunningham, State Supervisor of the Division of Wildlife Service, U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service at North Carolina State University. Rats cause the damages by destroying property, contaminating food and carrying diseases.

As an example of the damage done by rats, Cunningham cites one rat eating about one-third as much feed as a laying hen and contaminating ten times as much feed as it eats.

Rats are also threats to health. Cunningham says they are known to transmit 35 diseases to men and animals. Rats also carry 18 kinds of lice fleas, ticks and mites.

Insurance companies blame rodents for extensive damage. They estimate that 25 per cent of fires of undetermined origin are caused by rats.

A year-round approach should be utilized in controlling rats and mice. Cunningham says one pair of rats can breed five times and produce 50 young per year. Mice are even more prolific. Reproduction occurs all during the year in North Carolina.

Food, water and shelter are essential for rats to live and reproduce. These essentials can be used to eliminate infestations of rats and mice, Cunningham added.

Tall weeds or grass and piles of trash, lumber or brush serve as breeding places for rats and mice. These sources of rat harborage should be eliminated and followed with good day-to-day housekeeping, Cunningham pointed out.

Buildings and feed bins should be rat-proof. Concrete, hardwood cloth or sheet metal can be used to close cracks, breaks and spaces around pipes, vents and other openings.

Most ready-to-use or concentrated anticoagulant baits will give good control with proper use, according to Cunningham. "Placing bait near main traveled runways and near centers of activity which mark the living quarters of rats and mice is the most important factor."

Farmers should not conduct clean-up campaigns prior to eliminating rat infestations. Cunningham said this merely causes rats to find new hiding places and to establish new feeding habits which would make the task of proper bait placement more difficult.

184 YEARS YOUNG

Mayor Sam Yorty cuts the cake marking off the 184th birthday of Los Angeles at the Old Plaza Fiesta. More than 2,000 attended the city's largest birthday on the site of the original founding of Los Angeles.

The program, led by Fiesta king and queen Rory and Lita Baron Calhoun, included Spanish dancing, music and an old-fashioned dinner.

For the first time in the history of Los Angeles, the birthday was observed for one week including events in the harbor, San Fernando Valley and a special birthday concert at the Hollywood Bowl.
