MONTEREAL: The Jamaica Pavilion, one of the smallest national exhibitions at Expo '67, is successfully competing for attention with the multi-million dollar pavilions of the larger nations at the great Montreal world's fair.

It is one of the few places at Expo where the weary fair-goer can relax, refresh and refuel for another assault on the most successful world's fair in history.

The small pavilion offers the biggest drink menu at Expo—a five-foot long list of exotic rum drinks served with characteristic graciousness by 25 lovely Jamaican girls. The attractive drink menu has become one of the most sought-after souvenirs at Expo.

A handsome replica of a 19th Century Country Shop, the exquisite little pavilion sets like a small jewel among the towering concrete and steel monoliths of its neighbors. It presents its displays of products, art and culture effortlessly—they are all an integral part of the decor where the visitor takes his ease at a cafe table.

Beneath the vine-covered patio at the entrance, displays of the country's industrial, economic and social progress are exhibited with special information officers on hand to answer inquiries on tourism and investment.

Everyone Likes Devil's Food Cake

In every good cook's repertory there should be a fine recipe for devil's food cake. Very often it is a matter of trying several recipes until you find the one that suits you and your family best. Some like a very dark cake, others, a light one. Some like a moist cake, others not so moist. If you have yet to find the perfect devil's food cake then try this European style one. It has good flavor and a red chocolate color.

Devil's Food Cake

1 1/2 cups sugar
1 cup sifted flour
1/2 cup corn starch
1/2 cup cocoa
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
3/4 cup margarine
1 cup milk
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
2 eggs

Grease 2 (8 x 1 1/4-inch) cake pans. Line bottoms with waxed paper. Sift sugar, flour, corn starch, cocoa, baking soda, salt and cream of tartar together. Stir margarine slightly in mixing bowl to soften. Sift dry ingredients over margarine. Add milk and vanilla. Stir until dry ingredients are completely moistened, then beat 1 minute with medium speed of electric mixer or about 150 strokes. Add eggs. Beat 2 minutes with medium speed of electric mixer or 300 vigorous strokes. Turn into prepared pans. Bake in 350° F. (moderate) oven 30 to 40 minutes until cake tests done.

GARDEN TIME

By M. E. GARDNER
N. C. State University

The peony is one of the most popular and, some think, beautiful perennial plants. There are two types: herbaceous and tree. Since the herbaceous is the most commonly grown, we will confine our suggestions to this type. Another reason for discussing the peony at this time is because we have been told by friends that "my peonies are not doing too well."

Perhaps we should point out in the beginning that peonies are vigorous growing, leafy plants that require a good deal of room for proper growth. For this reason, they are not well adapted to a mixed border where the lower growing bedding plants are commonly used.

The soil should be rich and deep, the heavier types being best adapted for vigorous growth and production of large flowers. If you have a very sandy soil, you might try mixing in clay and well decomposed compost. A liberal quantity of either dehydrated sheep or cow manure is desirable to be mixed with the soil at planting time, regardless of your soil type.

Peonies do not thrive in deep shade because they cannot compete for light moisture and nutrients so necessary for maximum performance. I saw some plants last week with too much competition from shade trees. They were doing the best they could under prevailing conditions but were spindly, with weak stems and small flowers.

The better time to plant the roots is about the first of September in the mountains and from the middle of September to the latter part of October in the lower Piedmont and Coastal Plain. Dig a hole more than adequate to accommodate the root clumps. Carefully plant the clumps, working soil between the lateral roots with your fingers. Be sure that the buds, or "eyes," are placed two inches below the soil level. Planting the roots too deep is a common cause of failure.

The most common method of propagation is by root division. Any piece of root with a bud attached will produce a new plant.

If you want large flowers, remove the side buds when they appear. This procedure will give more strength to the terminal bud.
