

Rose Hill Agrees To Supply Firm With Water

The area's newest industry will be supplied with town water from Rose Hill although it will be located outside the city limits. The Town Board agreed last week to supply Feather Processors Inc. with water. The firm expects to use about 85,000 gallons and pay about $1,000 each month in water fees. The board directed its attorney, Richard Burrows, to prepare an ordinance revision eliminating the double water fee to out-of-town customers. Feather Processors will pay the $7,963 cost of extending an 8-inch water line

880 feet from the town limits to the plant site on U.S. 117 north of town. The project will include one fire hydrant to be placed near the plant. Company president Hebron Watson said in a letter to the board that the firm needs the water by Dec. 6. It plans to begin operations next month with about 15 employees. The plant will process feathers for furniture, bedding and upholstery manufacturers. Watson said the firm had a choice of drilling its own well, an expensive process, or buying water from Rose Hill. He said the firm will not burden the town sewer system because it will have its own system. The town's water rate schedule establishes a minimum fee of $5 per month for 3,000 gallons of water; $1 per 1,000 gallons for 3,000 to 10,000 gallons; 30 cents per 1,000 for 10,000 to 25,000 gallons; and 60 cents per 1,000 for purchases of more than 25,000 gallons. Town clerk C.T. Fussell advised the board that 10 out-of-town customers now pay double rates for water with their bills ranging from $10 to $19 per month. The board also authorized Mayor Ben Harrell to apply for an advance of $72,000 on its sewage plant grants to pay for design of the plant.

The town has been approved for a federal sewage plant grant. The estimated cost of proposed improvements is $2.5 million. "After 13 years, we're finally going to see something happen — maybe," Harrell said. The sewage treatment project has been planned for about 13 years since the present plant was ruled inadequate to meet treatment standards. In other business, the board endorsed the effort of the Chamber of Commerce to raise $27,000 as the local share of the cost of a rural health center.

Mammoth Body Puppets Unique To Arts Council To Be At Pink Hill School

Bits 'N Pieces Puppet Theatre of Tampa, Fla. will be on hand for a three-day residency on Dec. 2, 3 and 6. Sponsored by the Community Council for the Arts, the residency will be offered to students at Banks and Pink Hill schools on Thursday, Dec. 2; Northwest and Moss Hill schools on Friday, Dec. 3; and at Contentnea and Sampson schools on Monday, Dec. 6. "This is the type of program that we would hope all students K-5 would be able to see," comments Leigh Riggs, associate director for the Council. "Unfortunately a three-day residency limits the amount of coverage the residency would reach and there are no plans for a public performance."

Theatre will be performing one of Hans Anderson's more popular folklores, "Thumbelina." It is not exactly the updating that makes this upcoming Kinston and Lenoir County puppet residency so unique. Rather, it is the addition of 9-foot-tall "body puppets," the latest innovation of the fascinating BNP Puppet Theatre. Just a little over three years ago, the idea of the huge puppets was spawned in the mind of Director Jerry Bickel. Following a performance, a member of the audience had remarked that the small puppets they were using could not be seen in the back of the theatre or balcony. Now a fait accompli, the grand puppets have become the 10-year-old theatre's trademark, setting them apart from other professional puppet groups and gaining them invitations to perform in at least 17 other states. Teachers and students alike will be impressed with the 70-pound body puppets used in "Thumbelina." This 45-minute musical adventure story represents the typical "happily-ever-after" folklore, offering an educational presentation in the history of puppets, the origin of the folklore and/or fairytale, and an introduction into diverse instruments such as the celesta, bassoon, whistle flute, and moog synthesizer. The residency presented by Bits 'N Pieces Puppet Theatre is only one of the many programs offered by the Community Council for the Arts during fiscal year

1982-83. It is made possible in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts through the Southern Arts Federation, of which the North Carolina Arts Council is a member. Other programs scheduled in the new year will be: The Red Carpet Night of Theatre featuring "Mark Twain in Person," Duke University's Ciampi String Quartet, and the nation's #6 Barbershop Chorus. The General Assembly from Raleigh. The programs are scheduled for Jan. 28 and 29, Feb. 18th and April 29 respectively.

Spare That Den Tree!

With cooler nights and a nip of fall in the air, many people turn their thoughts to a supply of firewood for the coming winter. Even though the winter's supply of firewood should have already been cut and dried, many people will be cutting their wood during the next several months. Therefore, some tips on firewood cutting are listed below. When cutting firewood, try to improve timber stands by culling out inferior, low-quality and dead trees. At the same time, bear in mind that our wildlife species need warm homes too, and we should give that some consideration when we remove trees for firewood. In fact, for some species of wildlife, den trees are a must and we won't have the animals in our woodlands without them. Examples of wildlife species which use tree dens for nesting and shelter are squirrels, raccoons, wood ducks, owls and woodpeckers. Research has demonstrated how important good nest and den sites are to these species and how their population levels may be affected. It is possible in many cases to augment natural den sites with artificial nest boxes for squirrels and wood ducks where sufficient natural dens are not present, and wildlife populations can often be increased by this method. However, it is not good business to remove needed den trees and then turn around and replace them with artificial ones. Just keep what you have and supplement if necessary. On the other hand, where there is a surplus of den trees, some can be used for firewood. How many den trees are required varies with the species and to some extent with how well other habitat requirements such as food are met. As a general rule, a minimum of two dens per acre are recommended, with three to four being even better. They should be well-distributed throughout the woodland, preferably located close to feeding areas in the case of squirrels. For wood ducks, they should be in or close to water. For more detailed advice on this matter, you may contact your local or district Wildlife Commission biologist. Just be sure to keep wildlife in mind when you cut your firewood. Prepared by: Robert B. Hazel, N.C.A.E.S.
