TEEING-OFF TO A MERRY CHRISTMAS

19th Hole

The year '82 has been a real good golf year and now it is time to look down the trail and attempt to capture a few highlights that may be of some interest. Mindfully, it is next to impossible to recall all the astonishing moments during '82. On and around the links.

The top quote of the year, or maybe decade, "A goose is a goose" is still humming. Coharie's Cleve Goodnight records first ace of the year. Rockfish's Jim Russ wins in Pro-Am at River Bend CC. DCC's Gerald Quinn plays with Pro Lee Trevino and comedian Foster Brooks in GGO. Bill Potter, Billy's daddy, is playing the best golf of his long illuminiferous career according to Pro Doug Smith. Betty Matthews and team of Don Vest, Willie Futrell and Bob Williams win April Scramble at Rockfish. Ed and Crute team to win Longmeadow tourney. Jackie Turlington teamed with John Lathen to win annual Two-Man Best Ball at Southern Wayne. Duplin's Jim Stocker wins in tourney at Lakewood of Roseboro. Abbie Smith comes out of retirement to participate in LP Gas tourney at Lakewood. Duplin's club champ, Buster Johnson, fires under 67, sets three-year record.

DCC's Noble Martin records hole-in-one. Clinton's legendary George Williams teams with Jim Mason to win Two-Man Best Ball at Coharie CC. Duplin's Roy Barwick considered club's most exciting player. Mag-nia's Billy Potter wins 18th annual Invitational at Duplin CC. Mount Olive's Cletus Brock, former DCC head, wins his fourth Carolinas Golf Writers tourney at Myrtle Beach. Carolyn Brooks, Steve Edgerton, Joe Brinson and Paul Livingston win six-month Scramble at RCC.

Donald Thigpen teamed with his son, Keith, to win at Lakewood CC. Dean and Norma Teachey win Scotch Foursome at Longmeadow.

The team of Connie Carlton, Betty Stocker, Evelyn Chestnutt and Debbie Best and the foursome of Betty Matthews, Carolyn Brooks and Renat Hardt play in Walter Hagen at Myrtle Beach. Pro Rick Green, Al Matthews, Buster Johnson and Tracy Plesant participate in the Walter Hagen tournament along with Emmett Wickline, Glenn Lanier, D.L. Scott and Pete Weston. Billy Potter, the "Golfer of the Year" joins Magnolia's legend Charlie "Bantam" Thomas in 19th Hole Golf Hall of Fame. Well, this is about it for now. Just remember, as an old friend of mine said, "I'm going to try to stay out of the woods." Best of luck in '83.

James Kenan Chapter United Daughters Of Confederacy

The James Kenan Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy held their December meeting at the newly-decorated home of Mrs. Margaret Malpass in Turkey, with Mrs. Malpass, Mrs. Louise Hunter and Mrs. Frances Oliver as joint hostesses. They served refreshments to the members as they arrived.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. N.B. Boney, vice-president, presided. The program, "Christmas in the Old South," was presented by historian, Claude Moore. In a most interesting manner, Moore related customs and celebrations during the antebellum era. Christmas entertainments were a happy occasion in the predominantly rural country. Foods consisted of fresh pork, wild game, sweet potatoes, plum puddings, custard, egg nog and wine made from grapes on the farm. Decorations were prepared on the day before Christmas or on Christmas Day. The yule log and mistletoe were brought in and arranged in the proper place in preparation for the arrival of relatives and friends. Gifts were made at home using materials on the farm and forest. Many talented individuals carved beautiful and useful objects, while ladies busied themselves with needlework and made garments for all members of the family. Happiness rang out from every hall because the entertainment was spiritual in nature and included everyone. Friends were visited and caroling was usually the highlight of the season. Whatever the activity, it was always family and child-centered.
