

Fence Planned For Agribusiness Fair Area

The Duplin County Agribusiness Council has been granted permission by the county Board of Education to build a fence around an area that includes the former Kenansville Elementary School, William Rand Kenan Memorial Amphitheater and Kenan Memorial Auditorium.

The council sponsors the Duplin County Fair. It plans to put a 5-foot-high chain link fence behind the area involved and on the north side.

Only a temporary fence will be allowed on the side fronting on N.C. 11 and between the school property and the county hospital. The council can erect the temporary fence only during its county fair week.

Board member Carl Pate of Beulaville voted against the fence project last week saying he believes any long-term project should be brought before the county Board of Commissioners. Voting for it were Riddick Wilkins, Bill Richards, Jimmy Strickland and Joe Swinson.

The council also hopes to build a livestock arena on the west side of N.C. 11 north of the auditorium for use during the fair and for other events during the year.

The council purchased property on the east side of the highway, and its members said they would be willing to move the ball park there. The ball park now occupies the proposed livestock arena site.

In other action: — The board approved a resolution opposing a bill in the N.C. General Assembly to bar opening of schools before Labor Day.

* — The board approved, for the third year, a federal summer migrant enrichment program at North Duplin Elementary School. The cost, to be met by federal funds, will be $33,510.

The program will open June 14 and end July 26. An enrollment of 100 students is expected. Enrollment last year totaled 85 students.

The board also approved a full-time, federally paid migrant student program providing supplemental reading and mathematics for 50 to 75 students in B.F. Grady and North Duplin elementary schools for the 1983-84 school year. The cost will be $55,462.

To control weeds in tobacco, you have to make two difficult decisions.

1. Should I treat for nutsedge? Nutsedge has been called the world's worst weed with good reason. Spreading by seed and by tuber, above ground and below, nutsedge can reduce tobacco yields, lower crop quality and increase harvesting costs. Even one tuber per square foot can escalate into a major infestation in just 20 weeks. So if you think you'll get nutsedge this year, you should seriously consider applying a preplant herbicide that can control it.

2. Should I treat preplant? If nutsedge might be a problem, the only time to get effective control is preplant. So you can decide to apply your herbicide early. But if you have problem weeds that don't include nutsedge, you could decide to apply your herbicide at layby or transplant instead. Not only will a single application last through the growing season, but you'll run less risk of injuring young plants.

And one easy one.

1. Which herbicide should I use? Choosing application time is the hard part. Choosing the herbicide is easy. Devrinol* selective herbicide. Preplant, Devrinol can be mixed with Tillam* to control both yellow and purple nutsedge, along with many other grasses and broadleaves. And if layby or transplant is your decision, Devrinol can save you up to 50% in herbicide costs. Devrinol may not remove the entire load of decision making from you, but it can help simplify it.
