

Stanford Extension Homemaker's

The Stanford Extension Homemaker's Club met at the Stanford Community Building on March 28. We had two new members present, Mrs. Eva Brinson and Ms. Audry Pearsall. Any person who wishes to join will be gladly accepted at our monthly meeting the last Monday of each month at the community building. In our next meeting, our craft project chairman will be showing us one of her many projects for this year. As homemakers and with inflation at such a high rate, we will have to learn more skills instead of buying all our goods. The hostess, Mrs. Angie Smith, served refreshments. Mrs. Marie Monk was selected as an honorary member.

HILLS CELEBRATE 50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY - Whitford and Gladys Hill celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception held Sunday at the Holly Ridge Road Fellowship Hall in Raleigh. The event was hosted by the couple's children, Roger Post Hill of Wrightsville Beach, Sue H. Rogers of Pink Hill, Eleanor Goettee of Raleigh, Douglas B. Hill of Washington, N.C., Marsha W. Hill of Austin Texas, and their families. The children and grandchildren, with a host of friends and relatives from various places in North Carolina, were present. The couple was married on April 21, 1933. The refreshment table held an arrangement of mixed spring flowers from which gold banana punch and assorted party foods were served. A three-tiered anniversary cake decorated with white, yellow and green and topped with a gold "50" was also served. Pictures of the couple showing moments of their 50 years together were displayed. Mr. Edgar Wells of Teachey played selected music on the piano for the affair. Many friends assisted with the reception. Mr. and Mrs. Hill are former residents of Route 1, Pink Hill.

Choral Society

The Duplin County Choral Society has moved to the campus of James Sprunt Technical College and plans to do a short a cappella concert in the latter part of May. Anyone interested in singing with them is invited to attend rehearsal on Monday evenings from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Rehearsals will be held in the Hoffer Building auditorium at JSTC in Kenansville.

In the past year the choral society was received warmly during the Christmas season. They performed excerpts from Handel's "The Messiah" both in Kenansville as part of the "Twelve Days of Christmas," and to a full house in Rose Hill.

Next year the group hopes to do two performances, one at Christmas and another in the spring. These will be done through the JSTC continuing education program. There will be more information forthcoming.

The move to JSTC was made in hopes that the school and choral society might mutually benefit. The central location is also expected to make the group more accessible to people throughout the entire county. Anyone interested is urged to come, said John Goodnow, visiting artist at JSTC.

Along the Way
By Emily Killeto

Each person is different. But, really there are only two kinds of people — those who prefer to live in the city and those who enjoy the good life in the country. I am not the first person to discover that America is made up of two types of people. Mrs. F.F. Newkirk published a poem entitled "My City Cousin" in the October 9, 1941 issue of THE DUPLIN TIMES. Mrs. Newkirk knew the difference in 1941.

My Country Cousin
My cousin came to see me from a city far away. I knew she would not linger when she came that summer's day. For she did not like the country, I had often heard her say.

Her restless eyes just looked at me, and this is what she said. "I don't see how you stand it, for you just work all day and then at night — "You sleep and sleep you very life away."

I looked at her tired, haggard face with pity in my heart. For I knew I was living, and she was playing a part. She could not learn the language I used day to day.

The language of the birds and flowers and bees. The splendor of new mornings as we wake from restful sleep. The glory of the sunsets as they fade at close of day. She could not hear the music of raindrops falling fast, as they fed the thirsty fields and flowers and grass.

I love the different seasons. They all have charm for me. In spring the blushing berries keep us busy as bees. In summer all the flowers are blooming full and free. In autumn come the scuppernongs, all hanging on the vine. In winter friends come in and sit by the open fire.

I love the "open country" with growing things around. More wonderful in all the world is nature at her best. My cousin went back to the city, where her night is partly day. Perhaps it makes her happy to spend her life that way.

For me, I'll stay in the country where life is calm and sweet. The vision of my eyes not blocked by busy crowded streets. My Master loved the country; often wandered there. As years go on and earth receives us all upon her heart. It will to me just be a Friend to lead me to rest.

To control weeds in tobacco, you have to make two difficult decisions.
1. Should I treat for nutsedge? Nutsedge has been called the world's worst weed with good reason. Spreading by seed and by tuber, above ground and below, nutsedge can reduce tobacco yields, lower crop quality and increase harvesting costs. Even one tuber per square foot can escalate into a major infestation in just 20 weeks. So if you think you'll get nutsedge this year, you should seriously consider applying a preplant herbicide that can control it.
2. Should I treat preplant? If nutsedge might be a problem, the only time to get effective control is preplant. So you can decide to apply your herbicide early. But if you have problem weeds that don't include nutsedge, you could decide to apply your herbicide, at layby or transplant instead. Not only will a single application last through the growing season, but you'll run less risk of injuring young plants.
And one easy one.
1. Which herbicide should I use? Choosing application time is the hard part. Choosing the herbicide is easy. Devrinol® selective herbicide. Preplant, Devrinol can be mixed with Tillam® to control both yellow and purple nutsedge, along with many other grasses and broadleaves. And if layby or transplant is your decision, Devrinol can save you up to 50% in herbicide costs. Devrinol may not remove the entire load of decision making from you, but it can help simplify it. Follow label directions. Stauffer Chemical Company, Agricultural Chemical Division, Westport, CT 06881.
