

Washington Named Jostens Foundation Scholarship Award Winner

Felicia A. Washington of Kenansville, a senior at N.C. School of Science and Math, has been named a winner of a 1983 Jostens Foundation Scholarship Award.

Washington is one of more than 14,000 seniors throughout the U.S., Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and American Schools Abroad, who competed for the 200 $500 awards. Selection of winners was based on outstanding achievements in school and community affairs, meaningful work experiences and academic excellence. The Citizens' Scholarship Foundation of America, Manchester, N.H., as administrators for the Jostens Foundation Scholarship program, selected the 200 award winners.

Commenting on the program, Don C. Lein, president of The Jostens Foundation, said, "The Jostens Foundation is committed to developing quality education for today's young people and responding to the needs of our youth."

Funds for the Foundation are provided annually by a major support program of Josten's, Inc., a Minneapolis-based manufacturer of custom-designed products which motivate individuals and reward achievements in business, education and athletics.

State Soybean Association Honors Jimmy Stroud

Jimmy Stroud, a Duplin County soybean grower, was honored recently by the N.C. Soybean Producers Assoc. His 1982 entry in the state contest yielded 52.95 bushels per acre, 2.1 times the state average.

Stroud, who farms near Kenansville, won the honor with a RA 604 soybean variety planted May 10 on 38-inch rows. The big yield was produced with a population of seven plants per foot of row on Wagram soil.

A major factor in top soybean yields is weed control. Stroud used a pre-emergence tank-mix of Dupont Lorox weed killer to control broadleaves and Ciba-Geigy Dual herbicide for grasses.

Among the 60 contest winners who used a pre-emergence week killer, 42 percent used Lorox alone or in a tank-mix with a grass herbicide.

Growers in the state contest used a number of production practices — including no tillage, reduced tillage and conventional tillage. Double-cropping soybeans behind wheat is a growing practice and was more common this season than in the past. Officials monitoring the contest reported that 85 entries merited state recognition.

Notary Public Training At JSTC

Effective Jan. 1, the Department of State made it mandatory that a person desiring to become a notary public attend a 3-5-hour training program sponsored by a community college. The Department also recommended that all persons currently holding a notary public commission attend this training program due to the increasingly complex nature of their duties.

In an effort to provide this program to Duplin County, JSTC will sponsor a four-hour training program on May 5 from 6:30-10:30 p.m. in room 212 of the Hoffer Building with Mrs. Christine Williams, register of deeds, as instructor. Mrs. Williams is very knowledgeable about the duties and problems encountered by notaries public and will bring a wealth of knowledge to this presentation. If interested, call or write the continuing education department of JSTC for more information. The program will be beneficial to both prospective and current notaries public.

DCAC Fund Drive Launched In Beulaville Schools

The Duplin County Arts Council is sponsoring two programs this week in the Beulaville schools and these programs will serve as a launching for the 1983 DCAC Fund Drive.

"Other areas in the county have had their school campaigns," reports Merle Creech, executive director, "but at Beulaville, we decided to wait until these two exciting performances came to launch the Fund Drive. This way children and parents are able to see the Arts Council at work and to understand for what reasons the funds are collected."

On Thursday at 9 a.m. the older students will be entertained by mountain artist Frank Proffitt. (See story elsewhere in the paper). At the high school, also, there was a recent performance sponsored by the DCAC. The Lounis McGlohon Jazz Trio entertained at the school on April 15 with selections of jazz numbers.

At each performance, Mrs. Creech will introduce the Beulaville Fund Drive to the children. Information will be sent home and the drive will run thru May 13.

"We thank the people of Beulaville for supporting our 1983 campaign," says Mrs. Creech, "so that we may continue to have programs such as these good ones." Incentives and prizes will be awarded to homerooms raising the most money.

Duplin Duplicate Bridge Club Winners

The Duplin Duplicate Bridge Club played its first charity game April 28 at The General Store in Kenansville. A seven-table Mitchell movement was played with Doug Clark as director.

The North-South winners were: First - Angel Warren of Pink Hill and Doug Clark of Kenansville; Second - Jackie and Ed Crute of Beulaville; Third - Merle Currin of Wallace and Lee Allred of Rose Hill.

The East-West winners were: First - Kay Autry of Kenansville and Doug Hunter of Beulaville; Second - Fran Beyer of Kenansville and Mildred Schneider of Birmingham, Alabama; Third - Marie Britt and Sue Johnson, both of Wallace.

All bridge players are invited to play duplicate bridge every Thursday evening at 7 p.m. and on Monday mornings at 10 a.m. at The General Store in Kenansville.
