

Turner-Outlaw Speak Vows

Debra Ann Outlaw of Albertson and George Macon Turner III, Lt. Junior Grade, United State Navy, of Pink Hill were united in marriage in the Pink Hill United Methodist Church, at 8 p.m. on Saturday, July 30.

The Rev. Clarence Warren of Pink Hill performed the candlelight double-ring ceremony.

The fitted bodice featured a Queen Anne neckline outlined with chantilly lace and long organza full sleeves cuffed with lace at the wrist. Lace motifs etched with seed pearls lavishly applied the bodice and sleeves.

The floor length skirt extended into a cathedral train. Garlands of chantilly lace accented the skirt in a pyramid edging the pleated organza hemline. The tiered cathedral train was accented with layers of pleated organza edged with scalloped re-embroidered chantilly lace from the waist to the hemline.

The bride's fingertip veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a bridal hat with an upswept side accented with white silk flowers. The hat featured re-embroidered chantilly lace and seed pearls.

The bride carried one long stem rose.

Miss Mary Ann Kornegay played the flute while Miss Suzanne Uzzell was trumpeter. Wes Yates was trombonist.

Directing the wedding was Mrs. Donald Grady with Miss Iris Dunlap of Carthage, friend of the bride, presiding at the register.

Mrs. Faye T. Thompson of Sneads Ferry, friend of the bride, distributed the wedding programs.

The bride was graduated from East Duplin High School. She will receive her BA degree in intermediate education in December from the University of North Carolina at Wilmington.
