Duplin Fair Features Fantasy

By Ruth Wells

No, it isn't a fairy, it's Merle Creech, and NO, it wasn't a magic wand she waved, but a plain ole paint brush. And with cooperation from many talented and caring people, Merle and her co-workers have transformed the upper floor of the old elementary school in Kenansville into a fantasyland for children of all ages to enjoy at the second annual Duplin Agribusiness Fair, Oct. 3 thru 8.

You have to see to believe the works of Mark Patrus' art students. Brenda, Chris, Michael and Malcolm. Mark is the art instructor at James Sprunt Technical College. Omega Enterprises built "flats" for the art work. J.P. Stevens donated fabric to cover the flats. Merle and these talented students from JSTC have brought characters to life to create a Maze. Wandering thru this, one will find many points of interest — a huge tub of bubble soap — and who can resist blowing bubbles? Another point of interest that no one will want to miss is paint, paint brushes and a blank wall just crying to be painted. Somewhere along this route you may possibly find a potter's wheel, and who can guess what might be beyond the next corner!

This magical area will be open each day of the fair from 5 to 7:30 p.m. only. This is a must for every fairgoer to see. Whether you are three or 30, seven or 70, you don't want to miss this fantastic display. School children in Duplin, Sampson and Pender counties will be issued free passes to the fair. Passes will be administered thru the schools.

And while you are browsing don't miss the world of quilts. Eveline Dall and her sister, Ruby Blackmore, are coordinating a quilt exhibition that is most outstanding. They will quilt — those unbelievably tiny stitches — using colonial-type quilting frames.

Eveline is recognized as an authority on the art of quilting. She is a former instructor at James Sprunt and now operates a business in her home. She collects quilt patterns and is really a storehouse of quilt information.

Assisting Eveline with quilting are: Carol Pickett,

Artilla Oswald, Merle Curry, Dorothy Hatcher, Peggy Olson, Mattie Maready, Margie Maready, Myrtle Henderson, Bessie Raynor, Beatle Raynor, Verline Sholar, Glendora Lanier, Arlene Williams, Estelle Lanier and Epsy Maready.

Among the 50 or so quilts exhibited will be a "summer coverlet," white-on-white, that is more than 100 years old. Pillows and many other works of art will be displayed for your viewing pleasure.

All this and much, much more await you at the second annual Duplin Agribusiness Fair.
