Scholarships For Children Of Certain Veterans

According to Frank B. Moore, veterans service officer for Duplin County, the North Carolina Division of Veterans Affairs headed by Charles A. Beddingfield Jr. administers the state's program of scholarships for children of certain veterans.

Many children apply each year for the scholastic aid offered by this program and more than 1,600 are receiving benefits at public and private institutions in North Carolina.

The following information is necessarily general in nature. There are several classes of scholarship eligibility and briefly stated they

Classes I & IV - Children of certain veterans who died or are 100% disabled as a result of service in WWI, WWII. Korea. Vietnam, or children of peacetime veterans whose death of 100% service-connected disability was incurred (1) as a direct result of armed conflict or (2) while engaged in extra-hazardous service or children of certain veterans who were prisoners of war or listed as missing in action. The veteran must have been a legal resident of North Carolina at the time of entry into service, or with certain exceptions, the child must have been born in North Carolina and continuously resided here. Class II - Children as described above whose parent was a war veteran who has or at the time of death had a 30% or more but less than 100% service-connected disability or a statutory award for arrested tuberculosis. Certain children of peacetime veterans may qualify based on the nature of their parent's disability.

Class III - Eligible children as described above whose parent was a war veteran and who is recieving or at the

Some of Duplin's most beautiful buildings are her churches. A great number of the county churches have been organized for many years, like the Rose Hill Baptist Church, founded in 1900.

The freedom of worship is one of many freedoms which has drawn people to America. And, Duplin has some of the oldest churches in the nation within her boundaries. Grove is one of the nation's oldest Presbyterian churches and Wells Chapel, which was founded before Duplin was divided, is one of the oldest Baptist churches in the nation. Like many Duplin churches, Rose Hill Baptist Church can trace its history to Wells Chapel.

Wells Chapel, originally known as Bulltail, was organized in 1755. From Wells Chapel grew Concord Baptist Church in 1807, Magnolia Baptist in 1835 and Kenansville Baptist Church in 1837. According to the November 3, 1950 issue of THE DUPLIN TIMES, the Rose Hill Baptist Church was organized by members from Magnolia, Island Creek, Dobson's Chapel and Corinth Baptist churches about 1900.

The first regular service of the Rose Hill Baptist Church was held November 18, 1900. Services were held on the second floor of Jacob Carr's store building on the east side of the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad. The 25 charter members included Pinkney Rich, J.M. Hen-erson, W.C. Savage, R.M. Malpass, T.O. Swinson, George Rogers, W.D. Hen-descape Fether Hawas Marderson, Esther Hawes, Margaret Savage, Lessie Boone, Susan J. Cox. Callie Henderson, Nancy M. Swinson, Lora Blizzard, Catherine Bradshaw, Maggie Heath and Katie Rogers. The first pastor was the Reverend J.B. Harrell and he served six

The Baptist congregation was offered the use of the Methodist Chapel each third Sunday afternoon until the new Rose Hill church could erect a building. J.C. Mallard of the Methodist congregation donated a lot to the Baptists for the construction of their church and work began in the fall of 1901. The Rose Hill Baptist Church was completed in 1903 and the annual session of the Eastern Association was held at the new church. The original building consisted of only a chapel. Within the next years, under the leadership of the Reverend J.M. Page. two Sunday school rooms, a baptistry and parsonage were built. And, later, under the guidance of the Reverend A.L. Brown, five more Sunday school rooms were added to the church. The church began plans for future construction and established a building fund in the fall of 1939 and the Reverend J.L. Jones helped the congregation reach a total of $90,000 before he resigned in October of 1943. The following May a financial committee was appointed to make plans to build a new church. The design and building specifications were drawn by Coffey W.A. Brooks, W.B. Hawes, and Olson of Lenoir and approved by the congregation February 10, 1947. The building contract was awarded to E.F. Taylor Company of Goldsboro. Church services were held in the public school buildings

Hog Farmers Face Hard Times

Hog farmers ("pork producers" in the euphemism of the day) face hard times again as feed costs soar in relation to market hog prices.

"We had three bad years and 11/2 pretty good years and that keeps us hanging in said Wendell there.' Murphy of Rose Hill. "The cyclical nature of the hog business has always been with us and I don't see it changing.

James Norris, Columbus County livestock extension agent at Whiteville, said 'jumping in and out of the hog business won't get a farmer anywhere." Norris believes farmers should cut costs where possible and "hang in there" during depressed periods. In doing this they will be in position to market strengthens, he said.

The National Farmers Organization, with headquarters in Corning, Iowa, has reported that farmers have sold off a large number of breeding gilts and sows. which will mean a substantial reduction in hog numbers and pork supplies by the middle of 1984.

Murphy and Norris see hog production assuming a more important position in North Carolina's farm economy in the next few years as farmers are forced to diversify in the face of tobacco limitations. Some favorable factors are the weather, warm winters in comparison with those of the Midwest, and plenty of Packing plant capacity has increased in North Carolina and Virginia and the major and specialty packers of the area are building reputations for quality, Murphy said. He said packers have the capacity to process more than 20,000 hogs a day and plant expansion is continuing. Major area packers are Lundy of Clinton, which is doubling its capacity, Dinner
