

Come To The Fair

"Come To The Fair" is the theme chosen by the Kenansville Jayettes for the closing entertainment for the second annual Duplin Agribusiness Fair to be at the old elementary school in Kenansville Oct. 3-8.

"Come To The Fair" is also a wonderful beginning for the fair because you have to come and share to comprehend the magnitude of Duplin's finest — THE FAIR.

The gates will open at 4 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 3. Gate admission is $2 for adults and $1 for children. Also, school children will be issued passes thru their school. Fair hours are 4-10 p.m. Monday thru Friday and 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturday.

The midway will feature new and modern rides which will be inspected for safety by the N.C. Department of Labor elevator and amusement device division, as they are assembled, and reviewed in operation before any customers are permitted to use.

You can count on a good evening meal, whether it be hot dogs or more conventional food served by Bethel United Methodist Church, Route 2, Mount Olive. Need I say more because everybody knows how Methodist folks can cook. Of course, many other eats will be available.

The entertainment will provide something for everyone, whether your interest is cooking, farming, antique and classic cars, dancing, spooks, horses, arts and crafts, trap-shooting and archery — you name it, it is there.

Forget you are on a diet and stop by and SEE, SMELL and TASTE the various breads Agricultural Extension Agent Judy Wallace and her ladies will create from scratch.

Square dancing has been a favorite activity of this area since pioneer days just as it is now. Warsaw has a fun-loving group, The Seesaws, of which Cecil Bostic is president. Bob Cannon of Wilmington is the caller for the weekly dance. They have 40 members and have danced as far away as Fontana Dam. A new class will begin in October and interested persons should contact Cecil and join this wholesome recreation.

Among the school bands performing will be Wallace-Rose Hill, East Duplin, James Kenan and North Duplin. They are always a favorite.

At intervals throughout the week, 4-H club members under the direction of Ray Rhinehart will demonstrate their skills in breadmaking, egg cookery, sewing, safety, public speaking, small animals and bow making.

Patricia Pratt has assembled a group of gospel singers that you will surely want to hear. They will be introduced by local gospel D.J.s Bro. Leon Bryant of WLSE, Wallace, Bro. Charlie Robinson of WEGG, Rose Hill, and Robert Osborn Moore of WTRQ, Warsaw-Kenansville. Groups singing are: The Gospelsettes, Rose Hill; Birds of Promise, Rose Hill; The Travelers, Wallace; Kenansville Male Chorus, Kenansville; The Friendship Young Adult Choir, Rose Hill; and the Singing Messengers, Rose Hill.

In a predominantly agricultural county Tobacco Night is always a specialty. J. Michael Moore has put together a real interesting program, and of course that includes Slim Short of WNCT-TV, Greenville. Also, you are encouraged to join the tobacco auctioneering contest and other games.

James Rogers is organizing a brick-laying contest and Steve Rhodes in coordinating a miniature air show.

Judy Malpass brings a new feature to the fair in the form of a fashion show. Home economics students from James Kenan, East Duplin, Wallace-Rose Hill and Warsaw Junior High will model latest fashions from the following local merchants: Theresa's of Beulaville and Kenansville; Cintilly's of Beulaville; Fox, Wallace; Cato, Wallace; Kramers, Wallace; Bob's Place, Warsaw; and Joyce's Boutique, Warsaw.

A perennial favorite is the antique and classic car show. Ronald Cowan will be among those showing prized possessions, his being a 1930 Model A Ford and a 1962 Chevrolet convertible.

Under the livestock tent this year will be not only cattle and hogs but also horses and many small animals. Cash prizes will be awarded winners of the heifer show as well as the hog show.

And while you are outside, check the Kenan Amphitheatre. Among the presentations there will be "Not Enough Rope," a one-act comedy presented by the Duplin County Community Theater. Featured in this showcase of entertainment Jack Ireland, Winnafred Moseley and Betty Chestnutt. These actors are well-known for previous outstanding contributions to theater life in Duplin.

Back in the school building, many other interesting events await you. You might be able to enter an old time spelling bee. And you just possibly might be given the opportunity to spell such words as superintendent - backwards!

Warsaw Jaycees guarantee to send shivers thru your spine if you visit the haunted house which will occupy the basement of the old school building. Be sure to visit this to get in the mood for Halloween.

The school chorus will be performing intermittently, and don't forget the children's (all ages) maze Merle Creech has created on the upper floor of the school building. While in the basement you may visit a haunted house.

Old timers will again delight in the skills of yesterday as they watch the Andrews family. Under the oak tree on the front lawn of the school, you will see the old "Tarhill" — shingles made with a drawing knife and a demonstration on riving boards.

George Cowan of Cowan's Museum will have some of his most interesting antiques including a cider press.

Of course, the Kenan Auditorium and remainder of the school building will be a show case of commercial exhibits, as well as the finest arts and crafts.

This and much more will come to a close on Saturday night with a variety show, dance groups and reigning royalty. Teena Long and her baton students will perform. Among the queens and other royalty invited are Miss Duplin County, Julia Spicer; N.C. Miss Ideal Charm, Amy Williams; Duplin County Junior Miss, Caroline Murray; Little Miss Rose Hill, Amy Watson; N.C. Miss Hemisphere, Penny Sumner; also Miss Liberty Queen, Miss Black Duplin World, Junior Miss Liberty, and Little Miss Liberty.

The Jayettes coordinated by Chris Blanton have chosen the theme for their variety show, "Come To The Fair."

In a hurry? Meat loaf will bake in a fraction of the usual time if you put mixture into individual muffin tins.

Whitley Mobile Mobile Office

Congressman Charlie Whitley's Third District mobile office will visit Duplin on Tuesday, Oct. 4. Rodney Knowles, field representative, will be manning the office and available to persons having matters they wish brought to Whitley's attention.

The office will be in Chinquapin from 9:30 until 10:30 a.m. at the post office, in Rose Hill from 11 until noon at the post office, and in Warsaw from 12:30 until 1:30 p.m. at the post office. The schedule is subject to weather conditions affecting travel.
