

Coggins Announces For Kenansville Board

Statement of Emmel Coggins

Dear Fellow Citizens:
I, Emmel Coggins, am a candidate for one of the seats on the Kenansville Town Board. I have been a resident of and own property in Kenansville since April 1968. It is with this thought that I entered the political arena of local politics.

On a more personal note, some have said that I am somewhat "pushy". I readily admit that I am an aggressive, positive thinker who likes to see everyone and each department treated in an equal and fair manner. May I ask of you, which type person would you prefer represent you: one who simply flows with the tide, whether good or bad, or one who speaks frankly for or against an issue which greatly affects us all? We all mistakes, and I am sure that if elected I will be disagreed with on some issues. However, I can assure you that I will, at all times, speak my convictions and will not be swayed by self-interest groups or minority interest.

Ladies, Gentlemen, Fellow Citizens, I do seek your support. I would like to have had the time to visit each of you personally, to have gotten your ideas on town matters, but time simply is not available. If elected, I welcome your thoughts and ideas on any and all matters. Your vote and support will be greatly appreciated.

PAUL GORSKI, violin, and HUGH PART- RIDGE, viola, from the North Carolina Symphony, will present a concert of music on All Saints Day, Nov. 1. They will be in Duplin County schools all week.

Paul Gorski and Hugh Partridge, principal musicians from the North Carolina Symphony, will present an All Saints Evening Concert at the Warsaw United Methodist Church on Tuesday, Nov. 1 at 8 p.m. coordinated by the Duplin County Arts Council. It will be open to the public and free of charge.

Jimmy Creech, pastor, says of the concert, "All Saints Day reminds us that we receive a legacy of faith passed on through the lives of people who have lived before us. Some of these people have been musicians. Through music — a gentle form of expression that can bring us in touch with our past — we will celebrate and honor our heritage. The concert will be a lively and living celebration."

The Gorski-Partridge Duo are versatile performers and superb musicians. They offer high energy and a versatile evening of music. From pops to classical to new forms of music, the works they play have fresh appeal and provide for an excellent performance.

Gorski, hailed as "a brilliant young concertmaster" by New York Post critic Harriet Johnson, is serving his 10th season as concertmaster of the N.C. Symphony. After receiving his undergraduate and graduate degrees from the University of Illinois, where he studied with Paul Rolland, Gorski performed as associate concertmaster of the New Orleans Philharmonic and the Santa Fe Opera Orchestra. He founded the innovative "Discovery" programs for the N.C. Symphony, bringing chamber music in informal settings to children across the state.

Hugh Partridge is known internationally as an artist and teacher. During his tenure at Wichita State University, he organized and directed the internationally recognized Viola Collective. His students perform in orchestras in the U.S., South America and Europe. After graduation from Indiana University, where he studied with William Primrose, Partridge became principal violist of the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra and the Santa Fe Orchestra. He is currently in demand as a youth orchestra conductor, clinician and performer.

"We are delighted to have this talent and superb music
