Ladies' Night Observed

The Pink Hill Business and Professional organization observed Ladies Night Tuesday at the Pink Hill Presbyterian Church annex with a buffet meal. President Bob Riggs gave the welcome and extended his appreciation to the Christmas parade committee. Richard Harrell, administrator of Duplin General Hospital, was the guest speaker. Harrell, a Duplin County native, informed the group of the hospital's facilities, room rates, etc. Door prizes were donated by Andersons, Avery Furniture, Jones Furniture, Hood Pharmacy, This, That and the Other, and Watson's Mutual Drugs. Pictured above is Richard Harrell, discussing the hospital's facilities with W.A. Avery.

Chamber Soliciting Award Nominations

The Lenoir County Chamber of Commerce is asking for nominations for Volunteer Service awards. The award is designed to recognize those people in Kinston and Lenoir County who do so much but receive so little recognition. Recipients need not be members of the Chamber.

Awards have been presented since

March 1983. All nominations will be considered valid for a 12-month period. Nominations may be submitted at any time during the calendar year.

The award is presented monthly to those individuals or groups who have rendered or are rendering outstanding volunteer service. The actual service need not have been performed during the month that the nomination is made, but preference will be given to nominees who are still involved in ongoing volunteer service. Nominees must be willing to accept the award if presented and should be willing to meet with the awards committee if the committee feels it is necessary.

Nominations should be made on the official nomination form which is available at the Lenoir County Chamber of Commerce office located at 110 W. King Street in Kinston.

Named Among Outstanding Women

Mrs. Bobbie Bielby has been selected as an Outstanding Young Woman of America for 1983 in recognition of professional achievement and community service. She is a second grade teacher at B.F. Grady Elementary School and serves on the B.F. Grady steering committee and represents the school on the Duplin County Calendar Committee. She is a member of NCAE, NEA, ACT and the B.F. Grady P.T.F.

Mrs. Bielby is a member of Christian Chapel Free Will Baptist Church where she is assistant treasurer, a member of the choir and president of the women's auxiliary. She has served as a Sunday school teacher for several years and has also served on the Christian education board.

Mrs. Bielby is married to Earl W. Bielby, assistant principal of Woodington Middle School. She is the daughter of Mrs. Ruth D. Howard and the late Bob Howard.

Should You Buy A Phone?

Direct Line

Until recently, you had to rent your phone from your local telephone company and choices were few. But under deregulation that's all changed, and today you can now buy your phone from a wide range of suppliers, and choose from a variety of styles.

That's not to say that everyone has to buy their phone. If you're renting phones now, you can continue to rent or the telephone company will sell them to you as an option. New customers, however, will have to buy their phones if they don't already own them. That's because the new competitive rules will no longer let the regulated telephone company offer new additional phones for monthly rental.

So, if you're renting phones now, should you buy them? Of course, the decision is up to you. One of the simplest reasons for buying a phone is that it's going to reduce your phone bill immediately. Right now, you are paying the phone company at least $1.25 a month and maybe more to rent a phone. By buying your phone, you could cut out that monthly rental charge forever, and your purchase, depending on the style and price, could pay for itself in about a year in savings from rental charges.

New phones today cost anywhere from $10 for the lightweight, "throwaway" models to more than $100 for the fancy, "designer" phones. While the phone company is not selling new phones, it will sell you at reasonable prices the phones you now rent. Call your local telephone office for details.

Buying your phone is just like any other purchase. You have to shop around, check out prices, service availabilities and warranties. When you own your phone, it is your responsibility to maintain it, so ask about warranties and repair service before you buy.

It's a good idea to have at least one standard, well-made and dependable phone in your house. Your rental phones may be a good buy here; they have been made by major manufacturers and usually work well for years.

The new inexpensive lightweight phones may not be as reliable or sound as good as standard phones, but they are a good choice for extension phones in rooms where you don't use the phone too often.

One more thing. Be sure you have the proper connectors or adapters to hook up your new phone. In most cases, you simply need to buy your phone and plug it in. If your home does not have modular telephone receptacles for plug-in phones, you can buy a kit to make the conversion.
