

Scholarship Fund

The Duplin County Retired School Personnel organization is supporting teacher education in the county by establishing a $2,500 scholarship endowment fund through the James Sprunt Foundation. The fund will support students at James Sprunt Technical College planning careers in the education field.

Mrs. P. Elkin, chairperson of the scholarship committee, reports that the committee hopes to raise the endowment in time to award the scholarship for the 1984-85 academic year.

Health Fair in Faison
Goshen Medical Center participated in the WRAL/Winn Dixie Health Fair March 31 at the facility in Faison. The health fair visited Goshen last year and more than 315 people attended. This year, however, Goshen Health Center health fair coordinator Elinor Ezzell said approximately 108 attended the free clinic. According to Ezzell, the health fair was almost called off due to the tornado disaster only two days earlier in the Goshen Medical Center area. The health fair offered some free medical and dental tests and the newest member of the Goshen Staff, Dr. Bill Stoppelbein, D.D.S., is pictured above with a participant in the clinic.

Farm Bureau Insurance Honors Local Men

Billy Knowles Jr. and Linwood Worthington were announced by Clyde O. Fulk Jr., sales manager of Farm Bureau Insurance Companies, as a top producing agency manager and a top producing agent, respectively.
Knowles was selected as one of the three top producing agency managers in the state based on his agency's outstanding sales and service record during 1983 for multi-lines of insurance.
Knowles and his wife Rhonda reside in Kenansville.
Worthington was selected as one of the top producing agents on his sales and service record.
These honors were announced at the annual sales conference of the Farm Bureau Insurance Companies held in Greensboro March 18-20.
Worthington resides in Kenansville.
