

OB/GYN Coming To Duplin Medical Association

Dr. Jane Atkins, an OB-GYN, will be coming to Duplin County in July, according to Dr. Joe Zenel, medical director of Duplin Medical Association. She will be joining the four family practice physicians, pediatrician, and podiatrist of Duplin DMA.

She will be practicing at the Warsaw office located at the corner of N. Center St. and Highway 24. Dr. Atkins will be hospitalizing at Duplin General Hospital.

Dr. Atkins was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., and raised in Massachusetts. She received a B.S. degree in biology at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, N.Y., and graduated from Albany Medical College in 1981. She is completing her internship and residence in OB-GYN at the University of Massachusetts. In her spare time, she enjoys antiquing and playing classical music on the piano. With her excellent training, Dr. Atkins will be able to provide the complete range of gynecological services to the women of Duplin County. She is also able to handle high-risk pregnancies and deliveries. Dr. Atkins has particular interest in dealing with infertility, using the ultrasound in diagnosing and following high-risk pregnancies, and working with the problems associated with teenage pregnancy.

Dr. Zenel commented that "Dr. Atkins will be adding her expertise to an already-existing high quality OB program. The family practice physicians have been providing routine prenatal and postpartum care to the women of Duplin. In addition, Duplin Medical Association employs a well-trained OB nurse who travels from site to site, providing mothers-to-be with personalized and helpful education about the normal discomforts, potential problems, and joys of pregnancy."

JSTC Recruiting For Machinist Training Program

The continuing education department of James Sprunt has received a grant to train and place 20 disadvantaged workers on jobs in the metal working trades. Components of the grant program include machine shop skills training, student goals development, development of job hunting skills, good work habits, student counseling, job placement assistance and student follow-up studies.

This program was developed specifically to serve residents of Duplin County who are underemployed or unemployed and who are members of regional target groups to include veterans, offenders, AFDC recipients, single heads of household, displaced homemakers and minorities.

This class size project will not pay student stipends, but all other costs will be paid by the project to include tuition, textbooks, hand tools, insurance, protective equipment and supplies. Students who cannot attend due to transportation constraints, child care problems, or other barriers should call JSTC.

All potential students must meet certain eligibility criteria including income guidelines. The amount of income an individual may have is dependent upon the number of family members. Eligibility will be determined by an interview with the student.

The educational component of the JTPA project will consist of 90 hours of training in a two-months period beginning May 14 and extending through June 29. Students will be expected to attend classes each Tuesday and Thursday night from 6:30-10 p.m. and on Saturday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Primary emphasis will be on machine shop practices to include mathematics, operation of the lathes, blueprint reading, use of precision instruments, milling machines, drill presses, surface grinders and other metal working tools.

A pre-registration meeting was held April 20. Presently there are 12 slots available.

Students interested in metalworking as a trade and who feel they can meet the eligibility guidelines, are asked to call Joe Jones at JSTC, 296-1341, ext. 225.

Real Estate Class At JSTC

The continuing education department of James Sprunt Technical College will be offering a real estate class on the campus starting May 13. If you are interested in a career in real estate sales, you must be certified by the N.C. Real Estate Commission.

James Sprunt is approved to offer a 42-hour class to certify students to sit for the salesman licensing exam. This course is also the first in a series of four required to obtain a real estate brokers license. Although primarily designed to meet certification requirements, this course may be of interest to those who wish to know more about real estate financing, law, transactions, the Fair Housing Act and more.

The class will be taught by Stan Draughon, a Century-21 broker from Warsaw. The class will meet each Monday, Tuesday and Thursday night from 6:30-9:30 p.m. in Room 212 of the Hoffer Building.

For further information, contact Debra Morrissy at 296-1341. Warsaw residents should call 285-2077.
