"Long May It Wave."

According to confidential letters from the North Carolina Food Administration we are permitted to inform our readers that they will soon have to "tote" their food purchases home themselves. Mr. Page's heart is set on abolishing free deliveries throughout the state. He is of the opinion that it will tend to lower the price of merchandise, but so far we have not been able to agree with Mr. Page, but on the contrary we contend that it will increase the cost. Instead of being able to place your order with your grocer as at present and have it delivered, you will have to go in person to the store, and after buying hire a drayman to haul it home for you, therefore actually adding to the already heavy burden.

YOUR LAST OPPORTUNITY.

Remember that this is the last week in which you can subscribe for the NEWS at the rate of $1.50 per year.

After the 15th we will be compelled to raise our rate to $2.00 per year; also cut off our list all who are not paid in advance. The latter is a government regulation.

If your name has a big red X after it this week it is an indication that your subscription has expired, and unless renewed before next week your name will be dropped from our list.

CHARGED WITH HOUSE BREAKING.

L. F. Habel, F. D. Miller, Myrtle Ryan, W. A. Hargeshimer and J. F. Colley were arrested and arraigned before Magistrate Gash, Tuesday, on a charge of housebreaking. From the evidence it seems that Hargeshimer and Colley, who are U. S. soldiers stationed at Camp Wadsworth, employed Habel, who runs a public car to bring them and the Ryan woman, to Tryon. Habel invited Miller, a friend, to join them. They arrived in Tryon, and the woman told them to go on to Skyuka, where they would find entertainment, and that she had permission of Mr. Calvert, owner of Skyuka to go there whenever she so desired. Arriving at Skyuka about midnight the woman led the way, opening the door and entering. The two civilians in the machine did not go into the house until invited to do so by those who had previously entered. Not satisfied with forcing their way into the house they broke open a closet and took therefrom two bottles of whiskey. They were arrested the following morning and brought to Tryon for trial, when the above facts were brought forth. Magistrate Gash released Habel and Miller, turned Hargeshimer and Colley over to the military authorities, bound the Ryan woman over to the grand jury in a bond of $200. Being unable to fill it she was taken to the Columbus jail.

LUCAS-REICH.

A delightfully pretty and simple wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reich, when their only daughter, May Charlotta, was married to Mr. Carval Clark Lucas, of Durham, N. C., on Wednesday evening, September 4, in the presence of about 40 of the bride's friends. Dr. M. L. Taft performed the ceremony. The bride looked lovely in a simple white crepe de chine dress with embroidered hem and girdle and a long veil arranged in coronet style, held in place with pearl bands. She carried a fairy-like bouquet of peas and ferns. Her matron of honor was Mrs. Lawrence Stewart Presson (nee Gaines) who had a charming frock of shell pink net over satin with satin jacket, the whole trimmed with chiffon roses and sequins. She carried a bouquet of bridesmaid roses. The groom was attended by Mr. Julius Sawyer, as his best man was unable at the last minute to come up from Camp Sevier. Both were dressed in the conventional evening suit. The bridal party stood under a canopy of ivy and Japanese cane, with bouquets of pink roses scattered about. They entered the parlor to the music of the wedding march from Lohengrin, played by Mrs. Wade Lowe Webster (nee Farrington). After the newly wedded couple had received the congratulations of their friends, ice cream and cake was passed and a social time was enjoyed by all. Mr. Corwin sang several songs during the evening and Mr. Dwight Smith read a group of poems written by the bride's oldest brother, Henry Reich, Jr., who is in the U. S. aviation service now in France. Punch was served during the evening on the porch. Mrs. Lucas left on the night train for Durham, N. C., where the groom is engaged in the loose leaf tobacco business. The brides traveling dress was a fine blue serge with taupe trimmings, and a gray feather toque. Mrs. Lucas seems to have pleased everyone with her choice, and both she and her husband took with them the best wishes of the community.

CONTRIBUTED.

PERTINENT FARM REMINDERS.

1st. Now is the time for every farmer in Polk county to sow some legume and winter cover crops. On thin land sow rye and vetch. On good land where it is desirable to follow corn after a present crop of corn, sow crimson clover; sow rye and crimson clover or sow separately. Sow something. Don't let your land go bare and leach away all winter.

2nd. Now is the time to sow for permanent pastures. Don't try to make a permanent pasture on poor (dead) land. It won't pay. Good pastures call for good land.

3rd. Now is the time to get busy about that wheat crop for bread for next year. North Carolina is called upon for a ten per cent increase of wheat next year. Can we do it? Yes. How? By sowing a little earlier than usual. By giving more thorough preparation of seed bed. By a better selection of seed. By treating all seed sown for smut. By drilling instead of broadcasting, and use more 16 per cent acid phosphate.

4th. The fall task. Here are all the things above mentioned, and then, in addition is cotton picking, corn to gather, sorghum to make, potatoes, beans and peas to get in, and a thousand and one things to do that our city dwellers know nothing about. Can we do all these things? Yes. How? By mobilizing every moment of child woman and man and horse power on the farm. Let the school committee and teacher in every rural school agree with the parents in their respective districts, to begin school one hour earlier each day, or as soon as convenient after breakfast, and dismiss one hour earlier in the afternoon. Then in the home, let the father and mother, agree upon a plan on each farm, whereby the father will, with the larger boys and girls, do the heavier work, and the mother with the younger boys and girls, do the lighter work. Small children can pick beans, peas, cotton and gather cane seed, fodder, etc., where some one will direct. And no one can stimulate little folks as the mother can. In ordinary times field work is not a job for women and little children, but we are passing through a period of destruction, when every available unit of labor must come to the task. The love of country and of humanity cry aloud, and all sentiment must go, and a realization of the great task on our hands takes its place.

Let every one keep up a brave spirit. Don't get on the long face. The "Blue Funk" helps no one. The task truly is great, but the glory will only be greater when the battle is won, and won it must be, and won it shall be, and there will be honor and glory for every one who fights.

Respectfully
J. R. SAMS, County Agent.
