

TUT'S WIDOW IN ROYAL ROMANCE

Sought to Wed Son of King of Hittites While Pharaoh's Body Was Not Yet Cold.

Luxor, Egypt.—An ancient Hittite document, recently unearthed in Anatolia, discloses an amazing royal romance in which Queen Ank-h-Amen, consort of Pharaoh Tut-Ankh-Amen, was one of the principals. It also appears that the queen was banished by Tut-Ankh-Amen's successor, Pharaoh Ay.

This remarkable document has been translated by Prof. Archibald H. Sayce, one of the leading Babylonian and Egyptian scholars of Great Britain. It reveals the extraordinary fact that, while King Tut-Ankh-Amen's body was still upon its bier, awaiting burial, his twenty-seven-year-old wife dispatched an ambassador to the king of the Hittites, who was then besieging the ancient city of Carchemish, between Mosul and Damascus, to induce the king to give her one of his sons in marriage.

Message of Queen.
"My husband is dead," said the Egyptian queen to the Hittite ruler through her ambassador. "I have no children. Your sons are said to be grown up. If you will give me one of them, and, if he will be my husband, he will be a great helpmate."

The king of the Hittites apparently doubted the motives and good faith of the Egyptian queen. He replied to her overtures:

"The son of your lord (the king) where is he? Have you deceived me? The general of the army (Horemheb) has not nominated my son to the kingship."

The queen thereupon rejoined:
"What is this you say? I have deceived you? If I had a son and my people had a ruler I would not have sought the hand of a man from another country. No one has had children by me. I have no son. Give me one of your sons as my husband, and he will be king of the land of Egypt."

The document shows that the royal romance was almost completed by the Hittite king's giving the fair suitor one of his sons; but just as the marriage was about to be celebrated King Ay seized the throne of Egypt and the hapless queen was banished.

Owed Kingship to Queen.
History and archaeology fail to tell the fate of Queen Ank-h-Amen. She seems to have entirely disappeared from view after King Ay usurped the throne. It is known only that she was the real inheritor of the throne and that Tut-Ankh-Amen owed his kingship entirely to her rights of royal succession. It is presumed that Ay's motive in banishing her was to prevent a foreigner from ruling over Egypt, especially a hated Hittite.

American archaeologists, who gave the text of this amazing document to the Associated Press correspondent, regard the foregoing circumstances as one of the most dramatic revelations in present-day knowledge of Egyptian history. The Hittite narrative, they say, makes it clear that Tut-Ankh-Amen did not have progeny to continue his flourishing reign. It also makes it extremely unlikely, they add, that the body of Queen Ank-h-Amen will be found in the royal necropolis.

Denies Buying Sermons; Is Suing for Damages

Mansfield Centre, Conn.—This village of 350 souls is stirred over the slander suit Rev. Harold W. Tillinghast has brought against Deacon Archibald W. Buchanan, Sr., of the Mansfield Centre Congregational church. Rev. Mr. Tillinghast is the former pastor of the church. Deacon Buchanan is superintendent of the Sunday school and teacher of the Bible class.

Pastor Tillinghast says Deacon Buchanan told the Bible class the pastor was in the habit of buying the sermons he delivered Sundays. Consequently, he claims, his reputation as a preacher has been damaged and has filed suit against the deacon for $10,000.

Reverend Tillinghast states the sermons were written exclusively by himself.

When, as he alleges, the deacon expressed the view that they had not originated in Mr. Tillinghast's study the ensuing mental anguish on the part of the pastor was so great as to cause Mr. Tillinghast to resign two months ago.

The other day he caused the deacon's automobile to be attached, but a member of the deacon's household said Mr. Buchanan had got the automobile back.
