MANY USES FOR CORN AS FOOD DESCRIBED

Value Is Very Similar to That of Many Other Cereals.

(Prejuted by the United States Department Sections on corn flour, hominy, popcorn and fresh, canned and dried corn arred arred corn have been added to material formerly published in what was reputarly termed "the cornand the Farmers' Bulletin 505. Meal as a Food and Ways of Using its together with matter that then issued before in bulletin form by the United States Department of Astronome. The result is a very easive publication, Farmers' tion and its Uses as combining more than sixty covering and covering the verges in those and corn preparations challed a seed in the United States,

The front value of corn, it is pointed are similar to that of other Water used in a diet that also and foods, dairy products and s of trults, the choice between is creals depends more on preference and price than on sident supplied. If corn is or choap, or if wheat, rice or other terms are scarce or dear, corn may be surely substituted for them.

Corn preparations may be used in place of starchy vegetables such as potatoes, sweet potatoes, or beans, but in such cases some other vegetable or fruit should also be included in the diet to supply the mineral matter and vitamins which are less abundant or lacking in the corn. Corn can be substituted for part of the wheat in making yeast bread, but not for all, because it does not contain the necessary gluten. It can also be used in place of part or all of the wheat flour in many good quick brends and gakes.

Differences in milling methods make "eld process" or "water-ground" and "new process" corn meal differ in taste, constituents and keeping quality. White corn meal is made from a different and, as a rule, milder-flavored variety of corn than yellow corn meal. The preference for one or the other kind is largely personal or local. Coarselyground white corn, from which the sain and germ have been removed, is usually called samp, or coarse hominy; a somewhat finer, granular product is called hominy grits. Corn meal resale from still tiner grinding and treatnent according to the "old process" or "Lew process"; corn flour is corn meal created and boilted until it is as fine as when their. During the war corn flour was widely sold, but at present it is not ordered found in retail stores. Basers and sausage makers use it, and it is the of the ingredients of some of the pancake flours on the market. Com starch is separated out from the other incredients of the corn kernel and sold under that name for cooking purposes: it is not discussed at any learth in this bulletin.

tiorn meal may be boiled to make mush or porridge, which may then be used in a number of ways. The meal also forms the basis of many quick breads, cakes and puddings, and is combined with milk, cheese, eggs, meat, or other foods, into nutritious and wholesome dishes which may be served as the main dish at a meal. All kinds of between are used as breakfast cereals, or in place of starchy vegetables, and in a variety of cakes, puddings and dishes made with meat, fish or cheese. Popcorn is made from special varieties of corn, the dried kernels of which burst open when quickly heated. A pound of popped corn has practically the same food value as a pound of dry corn meal or hominy.

Partly ripened or green corn, especially certain sweet varieties, is a favorte vegetable in this country. It is in common use, both fresh and canned, and is occasionally preserved by drying. The bulletin includes recipes for using corn in all these forms, and directions for making lye hominy or whole hulled hominy, at home, and for drying corn and canning it. MANY CONVENIENCES AID CLEANING WORK of Agriculture.) The woman in the photograph does not have many conveniences, apparently, but she has bearned to make light work of cleaning by having a tall. narrow closet in a handy place in which to store her long-handled brushes, brooms and mops. She has also what is popularly known as a "scrubbing charlot," which can be used either as this housewife is using it, to roll her pail easily about, or, if there are corners which must actually be scrubbed, to kneel on as she works This "chariot" can be easily constructed at home by an amateur carpenter.

Directions for making it have been given to members of home demonstration clubs, by extension workers employed co-operatively by the United States Department of Agriculture and the state agricultural colleges.

A small shelf or two for cleansing agents such as scouring powder, ammonia, lye, etc., is a convenience. The picture shows a homemade closet with shelves, placed on the back porch.

IN WELL-EQUIPPED KITCHEN

More and Better Work Can Be Done in Room Arranged for Comfort and Convenience.

The kitchen is the workshop in most farm homes. In it the housekeeper and her helpers prepare the food for the family, and from it as a center carry on most of the other housework. More and better work can be done in a well-lighted shop arranged for the comfort and convenience of the workers and equipped with good tools than in a dark shop where much time must be spent in unnecessary steps and energy wasted with scattered equipment. Business men have found this a sound principle, and it should be applied to the farm kitchen so that the housekeeper can do her work more quickly and with the least fatigue.
