Clothing stored in good tight cedar chests after thorough brushing and sunning should be safe from moth ravages, for the larger moth larvae would have been brushed out and any young ones or any hatched later from undetected eggs would be killed before they could cause serious damage. Cedar chests do not kill the moth-miller, its eggs or pupae, but it has been found that they do kill the moth worms within a few days after they

Wood Chest Effective.

When one does not possess a cedar chest, a tightly constructed chest of ordinary wood would be just as effective, provided the clothing is as thoroughly cleaned, brushed and sunned and has from one to two pounds of good-grade napthalene packed with it. Woolen garments similarly cared for and prepared for storage may be protected by wrapping them tightly in several thicknesses of ordinary paper, with napthalene flakes nd if the clothes are then placed in or balls distributed throughout the

POISONING FLIES BY USING FORMALDEHYDE

Addition of Sugar Will Add to Its Effectiveness.

Probably the best poisoned bait for house flies, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, is formaldehyde in milk used at the rate of sheat three teaspoonfuls of formaldelighe to a pint of a mixture of equal parts of milk and water. This is placed in flat dishes in places frequented by flies. A piece of bread or sponge in the dish adds to the effec-Brown sugar or molasses and water with 21/2 per cent formaldehyde (commercial, 40, per cent solution added will probably also give stisfactory results. As far as possi-Me other liquids should be removed when poisoned baits are exposed.

The use of poisoned solutions, espedaily arsenical solution in tubs contalning portions of animal carcasses, has been tried and advocated against the screw-worm by a number of stockmen. A comparatively weak poison solution-about one gallon of dip, as sed for entile, diluted to seven gallons f water-is sufficient. Best results usually have been secured where a considerable portion of the animal tatter was allowed to protrude from the pelson solution, as there is a tendeary for the solution to harden the at and prevent its decomposition, this reducing its attraction for flies. It should be borne in mind that maldelyde, 40 per cent, is poison though the same proportion as wood alcohol, if taken internally. It should he inhaled, nor should the eyes be miduly exposed to it. Special pains should be taken to prevent children from drinking polsoned baits and to liferent the poisoned flies from dropthe into foods or drinks. Arsenical sciations, as is well known, are extremely poleonous to man and animals. Care should be taken to protect 'the licented laits from live stock, and it is not advisable to have the baits close to barnyards where fowls are kept, as hey may be poisoned by eating the

HAVE OLD CARPETS REWOVEN

Old Material May Be Converted Into Durable Rugs-Should Be Thoroughly Cleaned.

Net rugs may be woven from old been wanters and rugs too shabby he ased as they are, points out the United States Department of Agriculories for doing the work the lead in many localities. The and martered is cut into strips about three-tearns of an inch wide, which When make together and twisted make a tord some that like chenile and form the tilling of the new rug. Cotton String is used for the warp. Those fligs are very heavy and soft, alike on both sides, and durable, provided they are cleaned carefully. They are generally rather neutral in color and without a definite design; borders, however, that he woven from strips of carhave deed for this purpose. #### TAKE CARE OF PERISHABLES

During Warm Summer Months Keep Vegetables and Fruits at Cool Temperature.

Fresh vegetables and fruits should be kept clean, well ventilated, and, if possible, at a temperature between 60 degrees and 40 degrees F., advises the United States Department of Agriculture. Decayed ones should be fre quently sorted out. Very often the decayed portion may be cut away and the rest of the fruit or vegetable used Many of them have a scalloped hem of rich embroideries and high colors at once. Wilted leaf vegetables sometimes may be freshened by soaking in water just before using. All vegetables and fruits, especially those to be eaten raw, should be thoroughly washed in running water before they are used. The loss of flavor and texture is very slight and is made up for by the removal of bacteria and possible spray residue. Decaying fruits and vegetables always attract flies.

Most cooked foods made with milk eggs, meats, or fish, are excellent breeding places for harmful microorganisms, including many which cause poisoning. Chilled leftovers should be used as soon as possible. Leftovers of meat ple, dishes made with cream sauce, soft custard, boiled dressing, and dressing made with cream must be carefully kept and handled and promptly used. They often cause serious poisoning before they taste or smell spoiled. Boiled rice, hominy and other cereals also spoil quickly.

TEA IS ALWAYS REFRESHING

Bring Freshly Drawn Water to Boll and Then Pour on Requisite Amount of Leaves.

To make a pot of perfect tea, an expert in the United States Department of Agriculture directs one to bring freshly drawn water to a boil; pour it on the requisite amount of tea (onc even teaspoonful for each cup) in a previously scalded pot, allow it to remain covered for three minutes; then decant or strain into another receptacle. The spent leaves should neverbe used again.

When one intends to serve iced tea on warm afternoons a supply of ten brewed and strained earlier in the day is advisable. When the tea (s cool it should be placed next to the ice to chill. Cracked ice added just as the glass is served will not dilute it appreciably. Sugar and a slice of lemon may be used according to individual
