BONE HARPOONS FOUND IN ENGLAND ARE PREHISTORIC

Antiquarians Verify Fact of An- cient Life in Britain.

London.—The fact that prehistoric humans existed in the British Isles has been verified again by the reports of two learned committees just published in the Anthropological Journal, Manchester. These reports absolutely vindicate the authenticity of two bone harpoons which were found beneath the peat at Holderness, Yorkshire.

One harpoon is 4½ inches long; the other, 10 inches. Their interest is great, as from certain peculiarities they are now proved to be the work of Maglemose men—so called from Maglemose, Denmark, where many extraordinary relics of very early man have been uncovered. The age of the Maglemose man may be anything from 10,000 to 20,000 years B. C., when the North sea was dry, when land connected Denmark with York- shire and Scotland and when the Dog- ger bank was covered with forests.

Leslie Armstrong of Sheffield, a dis- tinguished anthropologist, read a paper on these harpoons at the Hull meeting of the British association last September. Mr. Sheppard, curator of the Hull museum challenged their authenticity, declaring them to be forgeries not more than thirty years old. Subsequently, they were carefull- ly studied by two expert committees whose reports have now appeared. They were compared with four harpoons from Kunda, Esthonia, which are unquestionably of Maglemose date, and were proved identical with them in type, color and chemical condition of the bone. The lines of cutting were also identical.

The two harpoons are declared genu- ine, and Prof. Sir W. Boyd Dawkins, one of the greatest living authorities on anthropology, writes: "I have no hesitation in saying that the charge that they are forgeries is absolutely without foundation." Further confirmation of his view is afforded by the discovery of a very similar harpoon under the peat at Bethune, in France.

The harpoons are in the possession of W. Morfitt of Atwick. Similar harpoons, with other bone implements of the Maglemose period, have been found at Oban, in the famous Mac- Arthur cave.

Liners and Reindeer Carry Mail to Alaska

Seattle, Wash.—The Alaskan mail service stands alone in the annals of postal deliveries in that it uses virtu- ally every type of transportation. Ocean liners take the mail to Seward, up-to-date mail cars carry it to Ne- nana, dog teams and river steamers take it to Iditarod, auto trucks dis- tribute it to out-of-the-way places and feet-footed reindeer assist in hurrying letters to Nome, St. Michael and Golovin. Now seaplanes are soon to take their place in the service to coast towns.

Leaving Seattle, mail for interior Alaska is carried to Seward by steam- ship. At that point it is transferred to the railroad which takes it to Ne- nana, 200 miles inland. This takes nine days from Seattle. At Nenana the mail is made up for the mining and trading camps. In spite of improvement, the old obstacles of ice and snow, whirling rapids, glacier-crust mountains, storms and mosquitoes wage their fight against the mail carriers, who make their deliveries with remarkable regularity.

Two Million Held as Slaves in Abyssinia

Geneva.—The League of Nations has been informed that there are more than 2,000,000 slaves of both sexes in Abyssinia, the traffic in which is re- ported to have been increasing every year since the war. Abyssinia has announced her intention to apply for admission into the league, but it is stated that abolition of the slave traffic will be the first condition im- posed before the application is con- sidered.

Seagull Finds Purse Lost in Ship Disaster

Vineyard Haven, Mass.—A seagull has salvaged the pocketbook of Capt. Daniel J. Miller, Jr., of Bath, Me., who was saved after his command, the collier Seaconnet, sank in Vine- yard sound April 29 with a loss of seven lives. Ed Dalen, a fisherman, was crossing the sound when he noticed a gull pick an object from the sea and drop it. Dalen investigated and found the pocketbook with identi- fication card inclosed.

Modern Solomon Lets Dog Pick His Owner

Solomon's baby trick was out- done in a New York city court, where Mrs. Ann O'Connor said the Pomeranian was hers. Mrs. Rose Cohen insisted the dog's last name was Cohen, and when Magistrate Sweetser allowed each woman to take turns call- ing the dog, the Pom answered either name readily. Then the dog was put in the middle of the floor, the judge said "Go," and the Pom trotted to Mrs. Cohen. Magistrate Sweetser said she could keep it.
