

Yard says criminals are made, not born. But the world is a long time finding it out.

Another sad little failure is the husband's effort not to appear interested while his wife retails the latest scandal in their set.

Since the Spanish king has forbidden the eating of onions among his courtiers, everybody in the palace breathes easier.

In certain ways, on certain days, this old world is getting better and better. On other days you wouldn't notice it so much.

Members of the Hohenzollern family undertake to preserve a quaint though no longer popular custom by addressing one another by imperial titles.

Life and hash are what you make them.

The best auto-suggestion is: "I'll be plached if I speed."

Vienna Realtors Make Hay While Sun Shines

Vienna.—Vienna is showing remarkable adaptability during these days of reconstruction. In more than one municipal office the dusty records and business system that were reminders of the Middle Ages have given place to broad, flat-topped desks, card index systems, typewriters, and a flock of alert young women.

There has been an orgy of speculation in real estate. Of the 43,700 buildings in Vienna, 21,000 have changed owners since the armistice, some of them over and over again. One piece changed hands ten times inside of 18 weeks. The whole city has been crazy to exchange depreciated crowns into real estate, and prices went up tremendously.

In one instance a seller received 6,000 times the prewar price for his dwelling. Even the members of the old aristocracy lost their heads and sold property right and left, and Vienna is filled with foreign buyers.

The city collects transfer taxes at the rate of 60 per cent, a circumstance which diverts a very satisfactory income to the municipal treasury.

Not a Red in the country is worth a Red sent out of it.

It's an even break. The rich we have with us always, also.

Nice thing about applauding movies is you don't get an encore.

He laughs at scars who never tried to pass another car at a turn.

The trouble with the "best minds" is that they do not always agree.

The restaurants have overlooked one bet. They haven't sold the checking privilege for the cars of their patrons.

Another nice thing about a phonograph is that it can't see your pleased expression and come back with an encore.

Radio music from America has been heard in Europe, but all we get in return is discord from the European concert.

Europe today, says a British poet, is torture to a man with vision. It is hard enough on a man with ordinary eyesight.

Grand opera by radio is enjoyable, except that you miss the musical man in the next seat who keeps time with his foot.

A good amateur mechanic is one who can take his jitney apart and find room for all the accessories when he reassembles it.

Every woman has at least one acquaintance she would drop except for the fact that the creature knows so much nice gossip.

Maybe one reason that the men have made a failure of running the world is because the women have made a failure of the men.

When a cow is too old to milk and too tough for beef she still is profitable if there are amateur deer hunters in the neighborhood.

Divorce records suggest that frequently a dropped letter is all that's necessary to convert a correspondent into a correspondent.

Berlin extravagance is attributed to the desire of paper mark owners to get rid of them while there is still something they will buy.

In the old days, a woman looked rather dowdy before her hair was done up in the morning. But bobbed hair doesn't look worse at any particular time.

A Chicago woman complains that her husband threw a clock at her at one o'clock and missed her. It doesn't make much difference if a clock is thrown at 1 a. m. just so it doesn't strike one.

Discover Indian Graves

Lined With Whalebone

Santa Barbara, Cal.—Indian graves lined with whalebone and containing bodies buried face downward have been unearthed on the site of the Ambassador hotel in this city by representatives of the Museum of American Indians of New York and the Smithsonian Institute of Washington. The scene of the discoveries is known locally as Burton mound.

In some parts of Europe the cashier inquires, "How will you have your money—in gold or by the bale?"

Another round the world air flight is planned. Why not go ahead and do it and stop chattering about it?

Scolding about the uselessness of a college education is but a naive confession that the scolder hasn't one.

Having barred the undesirable the next immigration problem, according to some, is how to get the desirables.

That $50 counterfeit bill in circulation is likely to keep on circulating till used for paying a federal income tax.

Considering what they know of solemn pledges, it must be hard for diplomats to look solemn while making one.

People who were waiting for a drop in the price of scrap iron from the scrapping of the warships need to be patient.
