SCOPES TRIAL FOR TEACHING THEORY OF EVOLUTION IS A TEST CASE FOR NATION

"Greatest Question Ever Raised," Says Wm. J. Bryan. Cannot Legislate a Limit For Human Mind In Inquiry After Truth" Says Opposition. Comments From the Press of The Country

Tennessee's battle over the right to teach the theory of evolution in the public schools has now engaged the serioous attention of all civilized thinking peoples. It is contended in some quarters that the whole question of human freedom and development is wrapped up in tissue. The question is of importance not only in Tennessee or Florida or Oklahoma or any other state. it is regarded even as more than a national issue.

Of course it is accepted that no law by statue. It is just as impossi_ ble to prove by legislative enactment Genesis story of the creation the truth or falsity of evolution as it would be to pass a law that would definitely establish the truth or falsity of gravitation. What is, is, and no legal pronouncements can make otherwise. The question raising the orgin of life. Of course in so its enquiry after truth. far as inquiry presupposes doubt, the issue embraces the question of agno-

On the other side of the fence stands the statement of William Jennings Bryan, arch foe of the evolutionary theory. "This" says Mr. Bryan, "is one of the greatest questions ever raised-the quistion of the right of the people who created ad support the schools. to control them. If not they, then who? The Fundamentalists are trying to establish the doctrine that the taxpayer has a right to say what shall be taught-the taxpayers and not the scientists-Can a handful of scientists rob your children of religion and turn them out atheists?"

Rebuttal then advances this argu mest: Even though the theory of evolution be true and be finally ac_ cepted by the people as against the story of the Genesis those who might accept the truth could not beconsidered atheists. They point, too, to the wide divergence between atheism and agnosticism. Another viewpoint: There duca not appear to be any particular quarrel with Mr. Bryan's basic theory that the taxpayers have a right to set up schools, and to govern the school cirriculum. It is only when this is coupled with legislation making education compulsory that the the right of the individual to seek truth becomes abridged. On the one hand it is said compulsory education does not necessarily involve study only in public schools. Parochial and sectarian and private schools are still left as the unhampered media through which evolution or any other theory of life or condict may be taught. Other controversalists say this is not a practicable answer in that it would create a monetary standard of education Were evolution demonstrated or accepted as the true principle of life, then such knowl, edge would be barred to the poor; indeed they would be compelled to learn only the story of Genesis, correct or incorrect The crux of the argument appears bearer in Uncle Sam's army for the to hang on the natural right of the human species to seek the truth, to be informed on the thought of the world and be given the liberty then to exercise their own judgement in @ the forming of opinions, andwhether the Tennessee statue allows that right. This applies to economics, to religion, to history, indeed to all bases of human knowledge, including the theory of evolution.

It would seem that most people would be so glad to get their hand on money-any kind of money, that they would not be seriously concerned as to whether it was spanking new or a trifle worn.' But people demand clean unspoiled money, demand it so insistantly that the Treasury Department must spend nearly $5,000,000 a year giving them what they want. Little difficulty is experienced with the aristocrats of the money family, the fives, tens and twenties, but the dollar bills are

ARMY SERGEANT TELLS HOW TO DISPLAY THE NATIONAL FLAG Veteran of the Color Guard Gives the

Etiquette in Displaying Old Glory Under all Circumstances

Flag etiquetts for the guidance of those who intend to display the national colors on the Fourth of July was outlined by Color Sergeant J. B. Claycomb who has been a color past eighteen years

"There are only two ways to display the American flag properly One is to fly the flag from a staff, with all its folds freely unfurled. The other is to hang the flag flat, with its' full horizontal or vertical length falling evenly and the starry field at the top and to the observer's left. Any other way, by placing Old Glory in a secondary position, is sure to suggest lack of dignity and respect

"Whether indoors or out, the flag should never be festooned over doorways or arches, tied in a bowknot or Use bunting.

"At crossed staffs with another flag the national flag should be on front of the staff of other flags. In a cluster of flags, the national flag should be in the centre or at the highest point of the group.

"On a staff, projecting from a window, national flag may be hung either horizontally or at an angle, with the starry field drawn clear to the truck, as the peak of the staff is staff and then lowered; before lowcalled.
