WILL DEFEND TITLE IN BATTLE WITH NEGRO

Boxer Will Go Up Against Negro in 15 Rounds to Finish.

York, Jan. 2. Negotiations completed today under which the world's middleweight champion, Tiger Flowers, the champion of Madison Square Garden, has agreed to terms by which he is expected to receive at least $60,000 for the bout.

Grebe himself announced he had closed with Promoter Tex Richard to meet the challenger selected by the State Athletic Commission as the most logical opponent in the middleweight division. Flowers was considered as having qualified for the match by his recent exhibition against Mike McTigue here, although judges awarded McTigue a decision. Newspaper men at the ringside were almost unanimous, however, in declaring that Flowers has outpointed the former light heavyweight king.

Grebe said he would start training immediately for four matches by which he seeks to condition himself for the Flowers bout.

Nicklin and Higgins Buy Franchise.
Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 2.—Announcement was made here today that Strang Nicklin, president of the Chattanooga Southern Association Baseball Club, and Bob Higgins, former Southern Association player, have purchased the Danville franchise of the Piedmont League. The club will be operated as a "farm" for the Chattanooga club, with Higgins as manager. Higgins managed the Asheville team of the South Atlantic League for the past year and a half.

JONES-GUNN MEET EUROPEANS IN ST. AUGUSTINE

Golf Match Marks Debut of Compston and Massey in Florida's Program.

St. Augustine, Fla., Jan. 2.—The first international sporting competition of the New Year will take place here tomorrow, when Europe's greatest professional golfers will oppose America's premier amateur pair in a 36-hole match. It will be Archie Compston of England and Arnaud Massey of France, against Bobby Jones, the American amateur champion, and Watts Gunn, runner-up for the title and 19-year-old protege of the invincible Bobby.

The match will mark the debut in the United States of Compston and Massey. The former is the "white hope" of European golf. He holds the British professional championship and finished only one stroke behind the 1925 winners of the British open and French open titles. Massey is the present French open champion and was the first foreign entry to win the British open crown.

Compston and Massey are in America primarily to fill winter positions at St. Augustine. During the next three months they will appear in a series of special matches and Florida tournaments as representatives of this city. They will play exhibitions here regularly.

Strange as it may seem the young amateurs will probably be favorites to win the big match from their notable and seasoned professional opponents tomorrow. This is due to the fact that Compston and Massey arrived in America only a few days ago, and have not had as much practice as they might like. However, they kept in condition aboard the ocean liner, by driving several hundred balls out to sea and by polishing up their putting aboard the Homer.

Compston is the biggest figure in European golf, and his season's record stands out as one of the most remarkable in the history of the game on the other side. Besides winning the British professional championship, the Manchester Giant—he towers 6 feet 3 1/2 inches—finished a stroke behind Jim Barnes for the British open crown; he tied Massey for the French open title, losing on the play-off; he twice defeated Abe Mitchell in match play and won two $5,000 tournaments besides taking a number of qualifying medals.

ROBERT R. REYNOLDS PENS GYPSY TRAILS

North Carolinian Writes of His Adventures Around World in Auto.

"Gypsy Trails" is the title of a book published by the Advocate Publishing Company of Asheville, N. C., which was written by Robert R. Reynolds, a North Carolina lawyer, more familiarly known as "Our Bob," while making an adventuresome trip around the world in an automobile.

The book, which is illustrated by photographs made by the author while on tour on this far-reaching and trail-blazing jaunt, is a compilation of notes made from time to time by camp fireside and lantern light describing what he saw, what he experienced and how he made this venturesome journey.

In it the author does not attempt novelistic peaks or threads of mystery, but merely sets down in the pages of his diary some most interesting experiences describing vividly a sojourn aboard a freight ship, arrested in Italy as an Austrian spy, adrift on the sun-baked deserts of Africa, the raiding of a ship by Chinese bandits, and many other days around the globe.

Khedive's Ex-Chef Gives Cooking Tip

Great chefs are born, not made. Rarely if ever do they rise to the heights in their profession by dint of perseverance. In Europe and the East a chef with the true gastronomic instinct is treasured jealously. He expects and obtains the treatment of an ambassador. His dishes are the pride of his master, to be boasted of to friends in the cafes and bazaar.

H. Gedoijan.

Such a chef is Haroutoun Gedoijan, sometime chef to the family royal of the khedive of Egypt, now the owner of a bizarre gold coast restaurant in Chicago. In his forty-three years as a chef extraordinaire, Haroutoun's word has been law in the cuisines of three Egyptian princes and one princess, the mother of the khedive. When Lord Kitchener was sirdar of Egypt, before the trouble in the Soudan, Haroutoun cooked for him.

One of Kitchener's favorite dishes, according to Haroutoun, was schisch-kabb, a dish made from milk-fed baby lamb. Prince Jamel, another of his masters, was particularly fond of dried cream and honey, a preparation which is one of Haroutoun's zealously guarded secrets. Prince Saad Pasha was a keen admirer of a confection Haroutoun makes entirely out of flour, butter and nuts.

In many of his admirable dishes, Haroutoun uses evaporated milk, which is simply fresh cow's milk sterilized in cans and with sixty per cent of the water removed. Because of a homogenizing process through which evaporated milk is put, the fat globules in the milk are broken up into microscopic particles and distributed throughout the milk, where they remain in homogeneous suspension.

This breaking of the fat globules gives a distinct buttery flavor to every drop of the evaporated product, a flavor which ordinary market milk does not have. Haroutoun says he uses evaporated milk in preference to market milk in the preparation of all sorts of baked dishes, as well as in cooking.

Of Course Minister Had to Heed Flock's Opinion

The late Odum Wagnalls, the New York publisher, reproached a magazine editor one day for never printing translations in his magazine.

"Here are Anatole France and Knute Hansen and Gorky and a dozen other wells of genius for you to draw from," he said. "Why don't you draw?"

"Because," said the editor coldly, "the public prefers native talent."

"You remind me," said Mr. Wagnalls, "of the country minister who never used the Lord's prayer."

"Why don't you use it, man? a friend from the city asked."

"Well, you see, we don't need it," said the minister.

"A sublime prayer like that! And you don't need it. Come, now, even a chap as gifted as yourself can hardly equal a prayer like that can he?" "Ah—er—no," the minister stammered, "but my flock thinks otherwise."
