

INTERESTING FACTS REGARDING TRYON

Says Booth Was Shot

A. W. Cash of Decatur, Ill., as a boy lived on a Virginia farm near the Garrett homestead in which barn John Wilkes Booth, murderer of Lincoln, was cornered. Mr. Cash ran to the scene and says Booth did not escape but was shot by Sergeant Cabett of Baker's Cavalry and died an hour later.

season. Its sewer system has its drainage into a creek that flows through its deepest valley. The State Highway hard-surface road runs through its main street and connects with the Dixie Highway and other hard-surface roads in every direction.
Tryon has a large public school building, five churches, two banks, excellent hotels and boarding houses. Tryon is known for its beautiful mountain homes, many of them having long roadways leading up through the woods. A number of these homes are owned by eastern and northern capitalists who either make Tryon their home or spend the winter and spring months here, and in the summer Tryon is filled with people from the South who enjoy its excellent climate and especially its cool nights. The climate is not as debilitating as it is farther south, and the clear, bracing mountain air makes it an ideal all-around place to live.

Its thermometers seldom go below freezing in the winter, and the nights are cool as soon as the sun goes down in the summer.
Any information regarding Tryon will be cheerfully answered by A. L. BERRY, office next door to the People's Trust and Savings Bank, to whom he refers.

McDOWELL MUSIC CLUB GAVE RECITAL IN STUDIO

The MacDowell Music Club of S. H. S., under the direction of Miss Winifred Bodie, gave a recital in the club studio last Saturday evening. Teachers and parents of club members were invited guests. Both piano and vocal numbers were rendered. Those taking part were Gladys Wagner, Emma Katherine, Ruth and Eloise Cobb, Harriett Feagan, Irene and Ina Edwards, Annie Lois Mills, Coy Smith, Gretchen and Anna Lynch, Ruth Tate, Ruby Tallant, Ellen Hague, Blanch Feagan, Gladys Walker, Jettie Hague and William Egerton. Each number was well rendered, reflecting much credit upon both pupil and instructor. Miss Bodie hopes to present her pupils in another recital as soon as the school auditorium is finished, at which time she will not have to limit invitations to teachers and parents of her pupils as was the case this time due to lack of space.

To Get Best Results in Using Loop Aerial

It is generally conceded that radio is about the most puzzling thing known and many, by way of performing various trifling experiments will vouch for this. Things that many say cannot possibly be done are really performed and a good many of our little everyday "hunches" bring surprising results.
Many fans have found a loop aerial will work better in one room of the house than in another. Therefore, if you want to do some interesting experimenting with this type of aerial, give this idea a tryout.
Often large, metallic frames, radiators, etc., affect the loop and the functioning of your receiver. And should it be removed to another room in exactly the opposite direction surprising results will be obtained. It is well to bear in mind that no radio set, whether receiving or transmitting, can be expected to work efficiently if large metallic elements are in the immediate vicinity.

HUMAN INTEREST NOTES

West Palm Beach—Social parasites better beware. The Rev. John Roach Stratton has arrived to war on them and similar evil forces he thinks are destroying the community.
Washington—In order to get his name in the newspapers a member of congress has to jazz it up or make ridiculous statements, in the opinion of Rev. Johnson of Texas.
Washington—Governor and Mrs. Trumbull of Connecticut, one of whose daughters has entered John Coolidge during Amherst vacation, were among white house guests recently.
New York—Sleigh bells have been jingling in Fifth Avenue for the first time in years. Some old cabbies have lots of coins jingling in their pockets as a result. They hauled old sleighs out of storage and have been getting plenty of customers at $15 an hour.
Patterson, N. J.—Another typewriter romance—Albert Tangora, world's champion typist, has married Miss Dorothy Lane, one of his pupils.
New York—Twelve grandmothers are studying child psychology in a class, in order not to spoil their grandchildren. Young mothers are giving instruction in the newest modes of bringing up children.

Paris—French income tax returns are to be open to public inspection. Deputy Balant of Britany proposes that the chamber go to the American Congress one better and reveal the fortunes, automobiles and horses of deputies in the French equivalent of the congressional record.
Berlin—Because fortunes were made by the sale of German subjects to England during the American war of independence, Herr Rosenfield, socialist, wants the reichstag to make a general inquiry as to the source of wealth claimed from the reich by former rulers.
Blarney, Ireland—The Blarney state has a new castle owner, but it is just as likable as ever when a visitor is up the down. Sir George Colthurst, owner of the castle for years, is dead and his son has inherited the property.

RICHARD LLOYD JONES SAYS

Instinct

As back of the flower we find the bud, so back of reason we find instinct. Because instinct is more fundamental than reason it reaches nearer to the roots of things. Instinct is deeper than reason. It is the first to respond.
Reason is the milling process of the mind. Instinct is the flash of insight. It is the protective inheritance of ages gone before. Nothing is more marvelous than the unvoiced intellect of animals. Instinct directs them into paths of safety and protects them from danger as if guided by a higher power.
In the heart of metropolitan Boston, flanked by the palaces of the city's ultra rich, is a great reservoir, known as the Charles River Basin. Along it for miles, runs a concrete promenade, a favorite strolling thoroughfare for thousands.
The basin is rigidly policed. Save for rowing crews and light pleasure craft, it is immune from desecration by man.
Every year, for weeks before freezing weather comes, the surface of the basin is black with thousands of wild ducks, who float serenely from its head to its foot, diving every foot of the way to nibble the sweet grasses which line the bottom or to feed on the abundant shell fish.
In well-ordered columns they move like armies down, down; then swiftly rise, circle in great curves to the upper reaches of the reservoir, then down again, repeating as often as the feeding is replenished.
These wild fowl, ordinarily so wary, seem to know that here they are safe. At times they float so near the embankment rail as to be almost within human reach, but no gunshots fill them with nameless terror; no missile strikes them with sudden death.
How do they know the watery zones of safety amidst the noise and clamor of busy men?
Whence comes this instinct which seldom fails? It is the greatest wonder of nature, and the kindest provision of the world.
