Horses "Inside Out"
According to a French technical publication devoted to the horse breeding industry, a Chinese visitor was recently taking notes at a prize stock farm in France. When he reached the stable where 20 fine horses were standing in their stalls, the celestial turned to the owner.
"I cannot understand," said he, "why you Europeans always put your animals in their stalls inside out."
"Inside out!" exclaimed the breeder. "Exactly. You stable them with their noses to the wall. They cannot see anything, are easily frightened and are apt to kick. In my country we turn them around so that they can see what is going on and who is approaching them. You westerners always start at the wrong end of things."—From La Bulgaria, Sofia. Pirate Perch Turns

Sunfish Out of Nest

Sunfish are troubled with what may be called a marine cuckoo—the pirate perch. This fish, which is either too lazy or else incapable of making a nest of its own, waits until the sunfish have completed their nest and then turns them out, installing itself in their place. Its eggs are frequently laid among those of the original occupants. These, however, are not disturbed and hatch out in due course, says the Vancouver Province.

Perhaps the most interesting nest found under water is that of the black-nosed dace. The fish clears a space about two feet in diameter and the female deposits a layer of eggs. Then a layer of stones is gradually placed over the eggs, the stones being brought to the nest in the mouth of the dace. On these another layer of eggs is placed and then comes another layer of stones. These alternate layers of eggs and stones are slowly built up until the pile reaches a height of eight inches or so.

The black goby forms a home for its eggs like a ball. This is constructed of pieces of weed interwoven and bound together, the eggs being placed inside. As is often the case, the male builds the nest and, after the eggs have been deposited, takes it in turn to guard it.

Sport A' plenty!

The keen-minded man of affairs realizes today the advantages that come from having HIS homeplace "out in the open," so to speak. To him, the privilege of having such a home, with all the comforts that not so very long ago were considered possible only in the city; to have a home away from milling crowds, removed from smoke and noise; that is a privilege indeed. And, it is to such men that the LAUREL PARK development offers an aggregation of substantial advantages. Since the business man of today is also a lover (with but few exceptions) of health-inducing sports, the builders of LAUREL PARK ESTATES have included in their plans not only the essentials to home comfort, but the facilities necessary to the enjoyment of a great variety of out-of-door recreations.

The SCENIC SUBURB

is designed to care for the recreational needs of man, woman and child. It is being built to provide the right type of homeplace — a community of culture and refinement. Those who love Nature will find in LAUREL PARK ESTATES much to intrigue their interest. The center of a vast range of greenclad mountains, this suburban area partakes of a wealth of natural beauty that is exceptional even in a country noted for its natural loveliness. Its central boulevard leads directly to the heart of HENDERSONVILLE, a thriving city that is known to thousands as a resort of unusual excellence. You have never seen such a development as this.
