

Dances, Teas
And Bridge
Parties

TRYON SOCIETY NEWS

Phone 99

All Society News Must Be In This Office By Wednesday Noon of Each Week

Tryon Club Notes
Etc.

Thom of Barnwell, Tryon, visiting her...

Mr. Wick who spent the past winter in Tryon is in town meeting friends...

Mr. George Remick spent the week-end with his father, Mr. Remick of Blue Ridge Forest.

Mrs. C. L. Brewer on Melrose Ave. had as her guests last Thursday three of her old friends...

Asheville Complete Opera Ballet Repertoire For Great Week of Opera

With but a week left before the brilliant opening on August 9th., of Asheville's annual opera season, announcement was made today of the complete ballet repertoire...

Swoboda; and the famous "Fado", (first time in America), danced by Pedro Rubin and the Spanish ballet members.

Divertissements will follow Wednesday matinee performance of "The Barber of Seville", and will be of a Spanish-Oriental nature...

Thursday night will bring "Lacta di Lammemoor" and again the type of ballet will be changed to conform with the nature of the opera...

Friday night's performance of "La Boheme" the classic of the entire week, will be followed by divertissements including "Zephyra", "Nocturne" by Tschaiakowsky, and the famous Ponghielli "Dance of the Hours".

The "Tales of Hoffman" to be sent two new ballets for the first time in America. These are the Mexican Jarabe and the Fado arranged by Pedro Rubin.

The concluding performance of "La Forza del Destino" will of course have special incidental ballet work during the operas.

Subscriptions for Music Festival wheel have broken all previous records. The sale of tickets for single operas will go on sale tomorrow, Monday, August 2nd, at Goode's Drug Store, Asheville.

VOCATION BIBLE SCHOOL A SUCCESS

Friday night at Columbus Presbyterian church the commencement of the Daily Vocation Bible School was given.

At this service, each of the four groups, the Beginner, the Primary, the Junior, and the Intermediate, presented memory work from the Bible, and sang many songs from memory.

The church building has no equipment for this part of the D. V. B. S. commencement, the boys and girls did good work.

The church was crowded to capacity with friends and parents of the 65 children taking part, and plans are already being laid for a bigger and better Daily Vocation Bible School next year.

One of the most attractive features of the evening was the handwork, which was arranged in four exhibits, and consisted of rag rugs, bottle dolls, flower stands, baskets, log cabins, bird houses, paper furniture, and many illustrated books and paper cut-outs.

The first day's enrollment was 26 boys and girls, but during the three weeks of the school this climbed to 74. The total cost of conducting the school, due to help from volunteer workers, was only twenty dollars, which was covered by an offering, and making it thus free to all the young people participating.

What Are You Going To Do About It?

Sunday will soon be here. It comes every week just as it came in your childhood.

The bells will ring, the organ will make music, people will gather for devotions. Thus it will be in Tryon, and thus it will be throughout Christendom—not merely this week, but on every Sabbath to the end of your life.

Why? Here is a force that persists—that surrounds you. The point is that it is here, present, living.

You cannot possibly ignore it. What are you going to do about it? Let's go! When? Next Sunday. Where? To Church. Which Church? The Church of your preference.

BAPTIST

Regular services each Sunday 11 a. m. and 8 p. m.

Special music evening services.

Sabbath School 10 a. m.

Public cordially invited.

THOMAS L. JUSTICE, Pastor.

CATHOLIC

St. John's Church, corner Melrose Avenue and Lanier street.

Mass—Sunday 8:30 a. m.

REV. J. A. MANLEY, Rector.

CHURCH OF THE HOLY CROSS (Episcopal)

REV. C. P. BURNETT, Rector.

Sunday Services;

Holy Communion 7:30 a. m.

Sunday School 10 a. m.

Morning Prayer & Sermon 11 a. m.

Friday, Litany 5 a. m.

All Are Cordially Invited to these services.

METHODIST

First and Third Sundays 11 a. m. Second and Fourth Sundays 7:30 p. m.

REV. P. E. PARKER, Pastor.

PRESBYTERIAN

Tryon—Second and Fourth Sundays each month 11 a. m. First and Third Sundays 7:30 p. m.

Columbus—First and Third Sundays 11 a. m.; Second and Fourth Sundays 7:30 p. m.

ERSKINE MEMORIAL (Congregational)

Rev. Will B. O'Neill, Minister. . .

Sunday—Church School at 9:45 a. m.

Morning Worship at 11 O'clock.

A graded school with classes for all.

Wednesday—"Quiet Hour" 4:30 p. m.

A friendly welcome awaits you.

Miss Caroline Jervey, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jervey of Tryon entertained Friday evening at the Lake Lanier tea room with a dancing party to which about 25 young people were invited.

Miss Ruth Eva entertained about 25 members of the sub-led set Saturday evening at her home in Tryon. Dancing was enjoyed by all present and punch and sandwiches were served throughout the evening.

Miss Florence Watson and Miss Rawlison, both of Columbia, S. C., who have been in Tryon for the summer will return home Wednesday.

The new bridge on the Tryon-Spartanburg highway near the entrance to Lake Lanier is completed and represents a fine piece of work.

Prof. E. W. S. Cobb was a business visitor in town today. Mayor Little of Saluda was in Tryon, Wednesday on a business trip returning home in the afternoon.

Tucks from all sections of this territory are passing through daily loaded with peaches from the various South Carolina orchards.

Indications for a banner fall and winter season for Tryon, is the general forecast, judging from the advance applications for cottages and hotel accommodations.

The Mayor and board of city commissioners have purchased a new fire fighting apparatus for the city of Tryon.

Chadwick was hit a pedestrian in a matter of minutes hit a pedestrian with his car and is held blameless. That is a triumph of the rule of reason.

Robinson's father, who had been wrapped in newspaper the numerous parcels of food that were to be distributed about Robinson's unwilling person, fixed a calm, but reproving, eye upon her son.

"You've spoken to your father about your grumbling, and he said: 'No lunch—no baseball money.'"

"Blood rushed to the boy's face; he appeared suddenly to be strangling. Showing the packages into his pockets, he muttered a savage 'G'bye!' and crashed out of the house."

A slight frown creased Mrs. Wayne's forehead as the last vengeful door slam echoed through the house. Her complacency was only momentarily disturbed, however, for she was serene in the confidence that she had done her duty by her son.

"This feeling warmed her the following afternoon as she seated herself at the Teacher and Parent Club. The introduction of the principal speaker, whose subject was announced as 'School Lunches,' interested Mrs. Wayne but mildly."

"The school lunch is important—but not so important as the morning and evening meal." Snatches of the lecturer's words drifted to Mrs. Wayne. "Children can't be bullied into eating food they dislike; they find ways of circumventing the most vigilant parents."

PLEASURABLE COOKERY

Orange Peel Bread

By Josephine Jessup

Robinson flung out his arms in a manner that suggested the flapping of rubber hose—a gesture that warned his mother of an agitated mind. "You needn't go on pilin' up sandwiches, because I ain't gonna take 'em! You give me so many my pockets stick out like I got the dropsy."

"You need plenty of good, nourishing food," Mrs. Wayne placed chips of roast beef, dry as whit leather, between thick slices of tasteless, slightly stale bread. "If you carried lunch boxes, you'd have a good meal."

"Hihi! Tote a gunny sack over my shoulder, you mean. All tastes like sawdust." Mrs. Wayne, having wrapped in newspaper the numerous parcels of food that were to be distributed about Robinson's unwilling person, fixed a calm, but reproving, eye upon her son.

"You've spoken to your father about your grumbling, and he said: 'No lunch—no baseball money.'"

"Blood rushed to the boy's face; he appeared suddenly to be strangling. Showing the packages into his pockets, he muttered a savage 'G'bye!' and crashed out of the house."

A slight frown creased Mrs. Wayne's forehead as the last vengeful door slam echoed through the house. Her complacency was only momentarily disturbed, however, for she was serene in the confidence that she had done her duty by her son.

"This feeling warmed her the following afternoon as she seated herself at the Teacher and Parent Club. The introduction of the principal speaker, whose subject was announced as 'School Lunches,' interested Mrs. Wayne but mildly."

"The school lunch is important—but not so important as the morning and evening meal." Snatches of the lecturer's words drifted to Mrs. Wayne. "Children can't be bullied into eating food they dislike; they find ways of circumventing the most vigilant parents."

Children refuse to be burdened with cumbersome lunches. The food they carry from home must be concentrated—so that the consumption of it will not take all of their lunch period. Idly, Mrs. Wayne watched the speaker place a menu on the blackboard. Hot chocolate (bought in school lunch room) Lettuce and bacon sandwich Orange Peel Bread and Butter Sandwich Apple

"Copies of the recipe for the Orange Peel Bread will be distributed at the close of the meeting," the lecturer continued. "This quick bread can be made very easily with self-rising flour, which is, as you all know, soft wheat flour with phosphate leavening and salt added at the mill."

The demonstration of the new bread followed, and the audience was asked to sample the product. Mrs. Wayne admitted that it was delicious, but as for spoiling Robinson with such concoctions—that was absurd. "The meal nearest us couldn't see the meal nearest us couldn't see before he appeared. His manner commingled fear and defiance. Forestalling his father's questions, the boy burst out:

"Made a deal with Johnny Henderson. He's quitting his Chronicle route, and I'm taking it over. So I'll be making my own money now, and I ain't gonna carry no more lunch."

His parents' glances met and parted. "Your mother and I will take this up after dinner, Robin," said the boy's father.

Later in the evening, Mrs. Wayne drew out a sheet of paper from her handbag, and studied it thoughtfully. The next morning her grocery list included candied orange peel, self-rising flour and pecans.

ORANGE PEEL BREAD
2 cups self-rising flour
1/3 cup sugar
1/4 cup nuts
1/4 cup candied orange peel or grated rind of 1 orange
1 egg
1 cup milk

Mix flour, sugar, nuts and orange peel. Add milk gradually, and beat in egg. Bake 1 hour in a slow oven, 300 degrees Fahrenheit.

(Recipe furnished by the Home Economics Department, Soft W Millers' Association, Nashville, T

It's Preserving Time

CAN ALL YOU CAN

Mason Jars Screw Tops All Sizes

Ideal Jars All Sizes, Extra Tops

Rubbers and Rings

The Prices Are Right

ANDREWS BROTHERS

"Your Grocery Store."
TRYON, N. C.

Just a Few BARGAINS

A five room cottage on Grady Ave. Tryon. With water, bath, electric lights and steam heat. $4.000

A five room cottage near Edgewood Inn, Water, Electric Lights, Bath and Out Building. $4.000

A six room house in the Pacolet Valley with 5 acres of wonderful land. $3.500

BLANTON AND STEARNS

REAL ESTATE DEALERS AND PROMOTERS

Leading Real Estate Dealers
Polk County, N. C.

COLUMBUS, N. C.

Licensed by the State of North Carolina

Members Tryon Chamber of Commerce.

WE ARE TRYON AGENTS

For The Famous

STAR AUTOMOBILES

"Fours & Sixes"

Come in and let us talk over the advantages of this economical car.

We Have Many Used Cars That Are Real Values

KILPIN MOTOR CO. Inc.

Star Dealers For Tryon
TRYON, N. C.