"Good Abruzzi rye seed can now be bought for about the same price as the worthless Rosen rye cost last fall, "says E. C. Blair, extension agronomist at State College. "If we could nonly realize how badly our soils need organic matter and would then consider that three dollars for seed and labor will sow an acre of Abruzzirye for turning under, there would not be a farm in North Carolina without some of this rye planted on it this fall. If the rye is planted now, it will more than pay for itself in the yield of late fall turning it under next spring will be clear profit.'

CURED AT HOME

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 28-The practice of curing a supply of meat for home use is more generally followed on the farms the South than in any other section of the country, way. yet there are more different methods used in curing and handling the product than is best for the industry. For that reason, the North Carolina Experiment Station has undertaken a study of the whole meat curing question. These studies have been summarized and published in bulletin number 249 of the experiment station series written by Earl H. Hostetler and L. H. McKay of the office of swine investigations. amount to sow is one and one-half This bulletin is now available on re-

The authors of the bulletin give the results of work done since 1916 when the tests were first started at the Coastal Plain Station near Willard in Pender County. They discuss the factors affecting the shrinkage of meat in cure, show the kind available. Many of the county of curing agents used and give some hints as to the best methods

BEEF WORK BEGUN IN EASTERN CAROLINA

RALEIGH, N. C. OCt. 28-Now that the cattle tick has finally been eradicated from all sections of eastern North Carolina, plans are being made by the North Carolina Experiment Station to begin some work with beef cattle in this territory. The first tests will be made at the Blackland Branch Station at Wenona in Washington County.

"The cattle tick quarantine was finally lifted from the entire State on December 1, 1925, almost exactly 20 years after the first work in eradicating the tlok was begun," says Prof. R. S. Curtis of the animal husbandry department at State College. "Anticipating this last step in tick eradication, we worked out definitely the original plans set on foot some years ago. Recently we bought 20 native cows from Holly

Tidge which will eb wintered on the reed lands and native grasses of the Wenona farm. Eightly acres have been set aside for this purpose. This land has been fenced and water put water put in. We are now preparing to build a barn to care for the cattle during winter." Prof. Curtis states that the cows wil lbe bred to a pure bred Hereford bul land a complete record kept of any improvement made through the successive steps of selection and breeding. Photographs will be made o fall the original animals and these records will be continued along with an economic study of the cost
