Neal Willis, Craven street, Beaufort is busy working on a short wave radio set and when it's completed he will be able to contact stations in this country and all over the world, because he recently received his ham operator's license. He's the only short wave radio operator in Beaufort—and perhaps all of Carteret county.

Mr. Willis studied many months to pass the stiff examination given by the Federal Communications commission for a short wave operator's license. He took the test, which was sent by mail, in the presence of witnesses.
