Junior Woman's Club Focuses Spotlight on Fashions For Fall

Little Margaret O'Brien, first magnitude Hollywood star, left, chooses a sturdy coat for chilly weather ahead, a checked tweed casual with velvet lined hood. Mother and big sister will look like portraits from the family album this fall. New York dress designers decree. Charming Victorian is the rustling evening gown of black and pink changeable taffeta, center, scattered with small brocade leaves. The full skirt forms "pout" in back. Copper and black satin, right, is used for an unusual dressy dress based on the styles of 50 years ago. Bustle effect and back fullness are typical note of 1918 fall fashions.

Lovely to look at will be the models in the fashion show being sponsored Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Beaufort school auditorium by members of the Junior Woman's club, Beaufort.

Musical entertainment will be given by a girls' chorus under the direction of Mrs. Virginia Hessel and presenting vocal solos will be Miss Betty Lou Merrill, Miss Thelma Willis, and Guy Smith. Miss Merry Johnson and Miss Joyce Johnson will appear at the piano. Describing the fashions as they appear will be Grover Munden. George Eastman is in charge of settings and decorating the stage while Mrs. Gilbert Potter is chairman of the committee in charge of models.

The fashion show is being presented in cooperation with Merrill's Dress shop, Beaufort.
